HAD SEVERAL DAYS OF WARNING

150 Distinct Earthquake Shocks Felt and Many Small Lava Eruptions Observed

TOKIO, Jan. 14.—(Wednesday)—Several men, women and children are surely dead in the Kagoshima volcano district, according to dispatches today from Mitogoshi, and the casualties and the casualties may total many thousands.

With the first eruption of the volcano, the island of Sakurash-ima, in the bay, was enveloped in masses of flame. Its three villages were entirely wiped out, and it is believed that most of its 15,000 people perished.

The city of Kagoshima, on the mainland, with 64,000 people, was totally destroyed, in much the same manner as Pompeii and Herculaneum were obliterated by Mount Vesuvius.

Thousands of fleeing people who escaped the burning city and villages were trapped in the blazing forests to the north, set ablaze by the white rocks belched forth by the volcano and were burned to death.

TOKIO, Jan. 13.—The city of Kagoshima, on the mainland of Kishiu, was totally destroyed by the eruption of Sakurashima volcano, according to latest dispatches reaching here tonight.
Kagoshima has a population of 64,000, most of whom are employed in the manufacture of the famous Satsuma pottery. It is believed here that many thousands of the men, women and children of the city perished.

Many of the inhabitants of the stricken island and of Kagoshima, who escaped the lava streams and the showers of rocks and ashes, perished in the blazing forests, which were set afire by the incandescent rocks.
The entire countryside was devastated.

The telegraph operator who sent the last message out of the doomed city, said over the wire that he was the only living person remaining in the town and because his message was cut off in the midst of an unfinished sentence, it was presumed he died at his post.

The village of Sakurashima was completely wiped out and numerous surrounding villages were destroyed.

Communication with the main land was cut off and accurate accounts of the casualties were impossible.

Fugitives reaching the main land of Kishiu island from Sakurashima tonight, said that fully 5,000 men, women and children must have perished as the result of the continued eruption of the volcano on the small island. They said that more than 10,000 persons remained on the island in the harbor after the 150 earthquakes gave warning of danger, and of these about half are supposed to have perished.

Sakurashima volcano, which had been dormant for 150 years, continued today to belch forth lava and hot rocks, interspersed with fire and ashes and all the surrounding territory was deluged.

Late reports said that another volcano in the center of Japan was in active eruption, destroying life and property. No attempt was made to estimate the casualties and the extent of the damage.

Started Slowly

The most violent eruptions of Sakurashima occurred last night, following a series of 150 distinct earthquakes since Saturday. Early yesterday the ancient volcano began to rumble and small streams of lava bubbled up slowly in the crater and poured down the sides. The people were panic stricken and as many as could fled to the main land. Many were unable to go to places of safety, but some of them thought that when the volcano had erupted for a day without serious results, the worst was over.

Suddenly without warning the volcano literally blew its head off and the molten lava almost submerged
the village. The people were caught in their homes and given no time to escape.

The accounts reaching here, making due allowance for exaggeration and excitement, lead the authorities to fear that several thousand Japanese were killed or injured.

Kagoshima Burned

ima volcano have almost overwhelmed Kagoshima, on the main land, with rocks and ashes, according to latest reports today from the stricken district, and the evacuation of Kagoshima was in progress.
The last message from the city said that the volcanic rocks had blocked the railway lines and made departure difficult. Many houses in Kagoshima have been destroyed.

The population of the island on which Sakurashima is situated is about 16,000. Unconfirmed reports here said that a large percentage of these people perished. Anything like accurate estimates of the casualties were impossible.

The last authentic message from Kagoshima said that all telegraph operators had fled the city and no further communication by telegraph could be expected.

City is Capital

Kagoshima is the capital of the province of Satsuma on the south end of the island Kishiu. It is situated on Kagoshima bay, on the edge of which is Sakurashima volcano. The city has large cotton, silk and glass industries and about 70, 000 inhabitants.

Hundreds Die at Ambryn

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 13.—Several natives on the western part of the island of Ambryn of the New Hebrides group, were overwhelmed by the flow of lava and perished
when six new craters belched out in active eruption, according to officers of the Canadian-Australian liner Makura, which arrived here today.

The steamer France took off 500
natives before two fresh eruptions drove boats out of the danger zone.
The crew of the France reported that Mount Minnie, one of the active vol-canos, collapsed, and that the western part of the island is afire and devastated.

Many parts of the important city of Kagoshima were set on fire by the rain of fire and ashes, and scores of buildings were destroyed.

Molten lava flowed in the streets of the town and did vast damage to the property. Enormous rocks, white hot, were hurled twenty miles and more into the interior and set the forests on fire. For a distance of eight miles north of Kagoshima, the railway lines were blocked by volcanic rocks and destroyed by fire.
Train loads of refugees were cut off and had to flee on foot.

The disaster in Kagoshima bay is the worst volcanic demonstration
since the French island of Martinique was destroyed in 1902, with the loss of thirty thousand lives, it is said.

MAKE DECISIONS IN LOCAL CASES

Supreme Court Reverses Case of Farmer Who Got Damages for Alleged Worthless Seed

LA CROSSE IS NOT RESPONSIBLE

Upholding Higbee in the Bruhnke Case Said to Mean Municipality
Not Accountable

The Wisconsin Supreme court today reversed the findings of a jury in the case of Rose vs. the Northrup King company, tobacco concern, by which S. C. Rose, a Vernon county farmer, secured judgment of $1,- 015.00 because tobacco seed, which he had purchased from the King company, failed to produce crops.

The case was one of the most peculiar ever tried in the Sixth district.

Rose contended that he had purchased two pounds of tobacco seed from the King company for a small sum. He maintained that he planted it, in accord with the rules laid down by all learned tobacco growers, that the country was blessed with an abundance of rain and sunshine but that—despite all the aid of nature—
the seeds absolutely refused to produce the nicotine saturated weed.

A Sixth circuit jury, comprised partly of farmers, decided that, had the seeds produced tobacco, the crop would have been worth approximately $100 an acre.

The court holds that the company did not warrant the seeds Rose ordered "Comstock Spanish tobacco seed," but the seed sent him came from Virginia and the decision of the lower court was reversed.

Affirm Viroqua Case

The supreme court affirmed the $1,500 verdict awarded Ada Adlington, who brought suit against the city of Viroqua, and others, for injuries resulting from a fall on a sidewalk.
The appeal, however, was not taken by the city of Viroqua but by Lindeman & Trowbridge, owners of the sidewalk.

City Not Responsible

A decision that may be construed to mean that a city cannot be held accountable for the actions of its employees was made when the supreme court affirmed the judgment of Judge E. C. Higbee in the case of William Bruhnke, Jr., a minor, against the city of La Crosse. The Bruhnke boy, five years old, too young to realize the danger, came in contact with a dangerous and unprotected mechanism on a patent dump wagon operated by the city, and his hand and arm were mangled. He sued for $7,500. The city demurred and was sustained, and this appeal was taken by the lad's guardian. He maintained that the city owed a duty, especially to small children, to take reasonable precautions to avoid injuries to them. Negligence was here charged. The appellant asked the supreme court to reverse the order which sustained the demurrer.

Affirms Insurance Decision

In the case of Mills Tourtellotte against the New York Life Insurance company, the judgment of the circuit court was affirmed. The court held that the claim that Tourtellotte is entitled to, $8,160, in addition there to a share of the earnings is wholly untenable. The trial court correctly construed the contract of insurance says Judge Vinje in the opinion of the court.

The judgment of the lower court
was reversed in the case of Leggett vs. the West Salem Canning company, by which Leggett was awarded damages for alleged failure on the part of the company to live up to a contract to furnish canned peas. Local attorneys, owing to brevity of the messages from Madison, are not positive just how far the reversal goes.

SUGGESTS WORK FOR EMPLOYERS

Presbyterian Minister Dis-

Good Temper Despite Bitterness of Attack

Rev. D. C. Jones, whose testimony before the legislative investigating committee was criticised by a resolution adopted by the Manufacturers' and Jobbers' club, and from whom the resolution demanded an apology, today answered the businessmen in the following letter:

Rev. Jones' Reply

As the resolutions of the Manufacturers' and Jobbers' club in your issue last evening seem in part to be aimed at me and embody such glaring misrepresentation of the substance and purpose of my testimony before the vice commission, I will appreciate an opportunity to place before the public a few facts on the matter.

An important part of the vice commission's investigation was to find out the conditions moral and physical under which young women of this city have to work.

These young women are to be found in the stores, offices, laun-dries, factories, hotels and schools.
Of these, young women working in factories come the least during working hours and at noon under the eye of the public for the reason that they are largely in a part of the city where the general run of citizens seldom go and have no occasion to go.
Also these factories employ many boys and girls who are quite unexperienced and susceptible. These young people under these conditions need, especially at noon, strong moral safeguards against evil influences either from a possible black sheep among them or an enemy hovering around them from without.

We believe we have come to the day when employers accept their due share of responsibility for the moral as well as the physical well-being of their employees at least during the hours they are at their establishments.

Not Ten Per Cent Bad

The vice commission sought to find out the moral environment of girls working in the factories of La Crosse.
It was not the factory girl at all but the environment of the factory girl that was under investigation and here I want to say most emphatically that not a word in my testimony taken as a whole can be construed even by implication to mean that I for one moment thought or insinuated that the factory girls of this city as a class are immoral or in any way less respectable than young women working in other institutions in the city.

That I made such a sweeping charge as is claimed in the resolutions is on the face of it its own refutation. In view of my personal acquaintance with many of these girls and of conditions in general,
I would have to be a brazen faced liar or an idiotic ignoramus to charge that even one-tenth of the factory girls are immoral, much less the whole of them.

Has More Information

I did testify that I had information of young girls who have become alienated from Christian and moral influences almost as soon as they begin to work in factories and that their whole spirit and conduct seem to undergo a change. I have also information of some very serious confessions involving from the time individuals working in the factories but this is equally true of individuals in stores and hotels and would not in itself constitute a just basis for sweeping charges against any class of girls. But the noticeable change in individuals coupled with rumors, yes persistent rumors, of very unbecoming language and conduct at times on the part of some employees has aroused my suspicion that there must be some element in the moral environment of some young people in factories in the city that ought and might be corrected
by the management if these things are called to their attention.

Rumors are often very unjustifiable and false, but when rumors become the common talk of the people nothing but a thorough investigation and a complete vindication will remove the suspicion. The public persist in believing that there is some fire where there is considerable smoke. No rumors apart from concrete facts would influence me in placing suspicion at any one's door.
One or two corrupt young people can poison the minds of many.

ICY GALE ROCKS THE EAST TODAY

New York and Boston Hit by Wind Which Causes Great Loss and Suffering

RELIEF ORGANIZATIONS SWAMPED

Weather Shows Let-up in Severity All Through the Middle West

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—The entire east was in the grip of its first real cold wave of the winter today and was rocked by a gale which endangered all shipping and whipped through the city streets wrecking signs and windows.

The blizzard caused the greatest suffering among thousands of unfortunates who called at municipal lodging-houses for aid or were entirely without shelter. The temperature stood at six above zero
here early today, with the mercury steadily falling.

Wind Halts Shipping.

All shipping was delayed by the high wind. The tugboat Newport, with six men aboard, was driven about for four hours in the upper bay today. The Newport was finally driven ashore, but the men, coated with ice and exhausted from their experience, had to be rescued by a police boat.

Relief organizations were swamped with pleas for aid. The municipal lodging-houses were crowded to overflowing and ambulances were kept busy during last night and early today answering calls. One man was blown from an elevated railroad platform by the high winds and narrowly escaped death. A small boy was blown under the wheels of a taxicab.

Along the middle Atlantic coast, freezing temperatures were reported from all points today. In many places cold records were all but broken. Albany, N. Y., reported 14 below zero, Syracuse reported 12 to 16 below and Saratoga 20 below.

Gale Ravages Coast

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 13.—A seventy-two mile gale which blew over Boston harbor brought a temperature drop of more than thirty degrees today and endangered New England coast shipping. The mercury hovered around four below zero.

Many small ships along the Massachusetts coast fought to shelter while others, sails and masts gone, were reported helpless.

Lets Up in West.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—More moderate temperatures over the middle west for the next few days was forecast by the weather bureau today.
The mercury here began a gradual ascent today, after touching ten degrees above zero last night.

SAYS GANG DROVE HER OUT

ABERDEEN, Wash., Jan. 13.—
That she had been set upon by sixteen masked men and driven from her homestead, twelve miles from here, was the statement made in a telegram sent to Governor Lister today by Mrs. Margaret Ross, former democratic candidate for state representative from Chehalis county.
She demanded protection so that she might return to her home. Mrs. Ross asserts the sixteen men, armed, dragged her and her two sons from their house and forced them to leave the vicinity under threats of death.
Then they burned the house.

press and public that Chip should have knocked out the local boy, who failed to run true to form in any of the rounds.

GOV. M'GOVERN HIT BY VICE EVIDENCE

Preacher Says Conditions

FARM SECTION CONDITIONS BAD

Rev. Harry Milford Says
Boys and Girls Around De Soto Are Immoral

SUPERIOR, Wis., Jan. 13.—Governor McGovern was placed on the griddle before the state vice commission yesterday, when charges were made that often violation of the law by gamblers and resort keepers had been laid before him without effect. Rev. Harry Milford told the commission he presented the evidence to the governor.

A copy of the written charges presented to the governor was filed with the commission.

Bad on the Farms

Questioned by Senator Linley, the witness, now a minister at De Soto, Wis., admitted that while there are no segregated districts and no saloons in the communities which he serves, that moral conditions are very bad and that he has been surprised to find them so among the farmer boys and girls. Even the fathers, members of his church, were fond of relating evil stories. To Assemblyman Minkley's query of whether there are many socialists where free love was so plentiful, he said he believed not.

F. S. Parker, judge of the municipal court, was the only other witness of the morning session. He told of the receipt of approximately $1,000 per month paid as "fines" by keepers of houses in the segregated district.

Thinks Morals Average

He expressed the belief that the morals of the city are as good as the average city of the same size, and while it might be theoretically wrong to permit a segregated district to exist he had ideas as to the practical features which he did not care to express.

Asked by Assemblyman Minkley
why he did not care to give his opinion, he said that he was in the same boat with Senator Linley of the commission, both having closed the district once and neither having been re-elected when they sought to retain office as mayor.

Mayor to Talk

Mayor Joseph Konkell will have a chance this afternoon to give the legislative vice commission his side of the city vice conditions. City Clerk McKeague and City Attorney Gard were before the probers this morning. Heated denial of charges of other witnesses is expected from Konk-ell. That the state needs law prohibiting cities from receiving fines from the segregated district is the conclusion already reached by the commission as a result of the hearings here.

CAN'T FIND BANDIT

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 13.— Despite the fact that posses have searched every portion of the city and surrounding country and detectives have watched every train, no trace has been found of the bandit Krafchenkow, who made a sensational escape from the local police station Saturday. The city council will tonight offer an additional $5,- 000 for the murderer's capture, making $10,000 offered.

COLD AIDS FIRE

MONTREAL, Jan. 13.—With the temperature thirty below zero a disastrous fire broke out in the Robertson Oliver Grain company storehouse here today. Owing to the extreme cold firemen had great difficulty fighting the blaze. Water froze before it reached the building which was partially destroyed with $50,000 loss. For a time the fire threatened all surrounding property.

SEEKERS ARE FAKERS

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 13.— Thirty-five per cent of the 1,422 "unemployed married men" who listed their names with the municipal employment bureau, gave fictitious addresses, are not married and do not make their homes in San Francisco, police investigators reported today.
Ten of the men who represented they were "down and outers" were found to own property.

17,000,000 FEET 1914 CUT

ANTIGO, Wis., Jan. 13.—Seventeen million feet of lumber will be sawed at Antigo sawmills this year, according to an announcement here today. The Faust Lumber company, it was said, will take about 8,000, 000 feet off its land and the T. D.
Kellogg company will cut between eight and nine million feet.

TWO RIVERS CASE IS DECIDED

City Has Right to Levy

for Harbor Improve-

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 13.—(Special).—By reversing the decision of the lower court in the case brought by William Bloomer against the mayor of Appleton and others, the supreme court has decided that the commission form of government law is constitutional.

The question at issue was the constitutionality of the commission form of government law, enacted in 1909.
Canavan (recently deceased), as mayor of Appleton under the commission law appointed Keller, Schlafer, Ryan and Hettlinger as four of the members of the board of police and fire commissioners. This board later tried William Bloomer, a patrolman, and discharged him from the police force. Bloomer in his contention before the supreme court, claimed his removal was illegal because the police and fire commission which was in existence when the city changed to commission form was the only legal board authorized to remove from the force. His counsel contended the commission law of 1909 is unconstitutional because it is "an attempt to delegate legislative powers; that it is an attempt to provide other and further conditions to hold office than what is provided by the constitution."

All Acts Validated

The city's counsel argued that all the acts of the board of police and fire commissioners appointed by the city commission were validated by the 1913 legislature, and that therefore the board's jurisdiction and acts
in this matter should be sustained.
The trial court held for Bloomer, and in this appeal the city commission asked the court to reverse the findings. Attorneys for Bloomer were J. Elmer Lehr of Milwaukee, formerly of Appleton; Horace B. Walmesley and Gilbertson, Lehr, Reitmeyer & Kiefer, Milwaukee, of counsel. H. D.
Ryan represented the city.

Can Tax Property

The judgment of the lower court
was reversed in the case of Sodora Boettger vs. the city of Two Rivers.
The extent to which a city may levy special assessments for benefits from harbor improvements is involved here. The city appealed from a judgment that an assessment of the plaintiff's lots for benefits sustained through the improvement of the harbor of the city was void. The trial court held the city had no authority to levy special assessments for the improvement in question without the consent of the property owners benefited, and that the only harbor improvement authorized was such an improvement as would make the harbor available for the largest class of vessels. Accordingly judgment was entered for the plaintiff and declaring the assessment against her lots null and void.

MAY SHOOT DUCKS ON IOWA SLOUGHS

MCGREGOR, Iowa, Jan. 13.—E. C. Hinshaw, Iowa fish and game warden, in a letter to E. J. Wilcox, a McGregor hunter, gives the following interpretation of the new government law for protection of migratory birds. The Federal law he says prohibits the shooting of ducks and other migratory birds on the main channel or the shores of the main channel of the Mississippi river. This does not include sloughs and bayous. Parties interested can best find where the line between sloughs and channel is drawn by consulting the river fishermen who have a license to net fish in the main channel of the river. Where they are allowed to fish a hunter would not be allowed to hunt and where they are not allowed to fish he can hunt in the open season. The closed season is from December 15 to September 1.

RAILROAD INCREASES RATES OVER RIVER

MCGREGOR, Iowa, Jan. 13.—Following, as it is said, the discovery by the C. M. and St. P. Ry. company of an old stipulation of thirty or forty years back which gives all railroads crossing the Mississippi the right to charge a twenty-five cent fare, a new passenger rate has just been put in force between North McGregor and Prairie du Chien, making the ride across the pontoon cost a quarter. The fare for a good many years has been only a nickel. As the rate between McGregor and North McGregor, a distance of a little over a mile, is ten cents, it now costs 35 cents to cross the Mississippi by rail from McGregor to Prairie du Chien.

By morning! the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone. End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dripping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.

LITTLE GIRLS DIE WHEN HOME BURNS

CHIPPewa FALLS, Wis., Jan. 13.—The charred remains of Dora and Sophia Bench, little daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bench, were taken from the ruins of the Bench farm home, seven miles north of here, today. The little ones were cremated when fire burned the home to the ground. They were asleep at the time the fire was started by a young brother, who dropped a kerosene lamp. The father was seriously injured when he attempted to rescue the girls.

In Extremis.

Late one night a clergyman was called out to minister to an old man—a worker upon the adjacent railway—who was supposed to be dying. The summons was brought by another old man, the elder brother of the stricken one. While he was bustling about, making preparations for departure, the clergyman forgot momentarily the social status of his visitor and asked, "Is he in extremis?"

The old man was not going to be beaten. "Aye, he's right in your reverence." After a pause he added as a clincher: "Clean in, poor chap; right up to the neck, sir."—Cornhill Magazine.

Easy.

"I wonder why women's fraternities are never successful?" "That's quite simple. Fraternities are secret organizations."

She Watched the Bird With a Smile.

"I AM going to tell you a really true story," said daddy, "something which happened today. I was walking along a rather poor part of the city when I saw a number of children gathered in a group in a little side yard of a tenement house. The children were screaming to one boy: 'Oh, catch him! Don't let the awful cat get him!'"

"Oh, was it a bird?" asked Jack eagerly.

"Yes," replied daddy; "it was a bird, but not just the usual kind of bird that is seen around city streets, for only the sparrows like the noise of a city. Most birds like the woods and the country, where they can have homes in the trees and can sing all day long."

"But this was a tame yellow canary who had flown out of an open window to pick up some goodie he saw on the ground, and a cat was after him."

"Did they get him from the cat?" asked Evelyn eagerly, for she was devoted to animals and perhaps especially to birds.

"Yes," answered daddy; "the little boy succeeded in rescuing him, but the poor canary had been so frightened that his little heart was beating, oh, so fast, and the children were afraid he was not going to live."

"They all followed the little boy who had caught the canary just in time into the tenement house. The cat had knocked several feathers from the bird's tail."

"Another child told me the canary belonged to a little girl who lived in the tenement. He asked me to follow, too, for he said that the little girl had trouble with her back and had to lie flat all the time. She loved visitors, for so much of the time she was lonely. Her mother was poor and out all day sewing, so the little girl's chief companion was the canary, who would sing for hours and hours. He seemed to know he must keep her cheered up."

"So along I went too. We climbed some stairs until we came to a dingy room where on a cot by the window lay a little girl about eight years old. She had big dark eyes, and when I saw her her cheeks were bright red from all the excitement."

"All her friends had gathered around, each giving her a special description of how the bird had been rescued. She was smiling with joy and watching the bird, who was now busily engaged nibbling at a little piece of apple which had been given him. Before long he began to sing, oh, so joyously, for he knew he was once more back in his happy home where he would take good care to stay in the future."

"I told the little girl of my Jack and Evelyn, and she said she wanted to see you both. Shall we all go to see her and her little bird some day?"

"We'd love to!" cried Jack and Evelyn delightedly.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is sign you have been eating too much meat

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, ease you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink. Agent, Chas. A. Benschlag, Drugist, 503 Main St.

CALEDONIA TEAM WINS IN DEBATE

CALEDONIA, Minn., Jan. 13.—Friday night the first of the district semi-final debates was held here. Caledonia and Mabel being the contestants. Mabel was represented by Ruth Maltby, Perry Thompson and Alvin Rollins, who spoke in the above named order on the negative of the question, "Resolved, that all judges should be subject to popular recall." Caledonia was represented by Leo Ryan, Vincent Ryan and Henry Wisland, who spoke on the affirmative side of the question. Superintendent C. F. Pye of Waukon, Superintendent J. S. Hilliard of Postville, and Principal Webster Davis of Waukon were the judges. They returned a unanimous verdict for the affirmative. Caledonia has now won two unanimous victories on this side of the question, winning the first from Houston on December 5. So far the other victories in the state have been won by the negative. The Mabel team was strong in delivery, and were well coached. The Caledonia team was strong in upholding the vital issues at stake.

On January 16 Lanesboro and Chatfield will meet at Lanesboro to determine who will meet Caledonia for district honors. A continuance of the present enthusiastic support will do much to help Caledonia keep the state championship trophy now in her possession.

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

Digging Late Potatoes

By CLARENCE HARPER

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Any time in the last thirty years, had you sat by the fireside of a Nassau county farmer he would have told you the story of the hidden gold.

There lived in the county a mighty poor farmer, on a mighty poor farm. His name was Dan Larkins, and if he was a poor farmer, his wife was a sloven of a housekeeper. It came to be known that they were thieves. They were too lazy to work, but not too lazy to make long night trips and bring home loads of plunder. For a time they were only suspected; then proofs were obtained and they were arrested. Nothing but a technical error in the warrant saved them from prison.

The Larkins took a heavy revenge. The barns of all those who had anything to do with the case against them were burned, and more than one lost a good cow. There was talk of tar and feathers and driving them out. Dan Larkins called on those who talked the loudest and said:

"Begin your fun as soon as you please, but I want to tell you that when it's over with there won't be a house or barn left standing in Nassau county!"

For several years after that the Larkins did as they pleased. A farmer might trace stolen goods to their house, but he dared go no further. The natural result was that Dan Larkins came to believe that the law was afraid of him, and that he had only to take what he wanted. With a club in his hand he walked into Mount Vernon one day, and entering the bank, he said to the cashier:

"Hand me over ten thousand dollars!"

"Who are you?" was asked.

"I'm Dan Larkins."

"But you have no account here."

"Then I'll open one!"

And Larkins hit him on the head with the bludgeon and grabbed a bag of gold containing $10,000 and fled. Instead of going directly home he took a roundabout way, and his pursuers were at the house waiting for him. He offered no resistance, but when asked what he had done with the gold he laughed in their faces.

A party of six men employed by the bank made a search for that gold that lasted eight weeks. Larkins had hidden it between his farm and town, a distance of eight miles. He might have buried it—he might have hidden it in a hollow log or stump. There were a dozen ways he could have disposed of it and passed the secret along to his wife. She did not get to pass a word with him after his arrest, however, and his sentence was for twenty years.

The wife remained on the farm for three years after the husband went to prison. She visited him in prison several times, but they were not allowed to pass a word in private. During the three years she made several hunts for the treasure, but they were in vain. That little fortune seemed beyond finding. Various attempts were made to get Larkins to point out the spot, but he would not give away his secret. Seven years after he entered prison he died there.

For nearly thirty years that gold was searched for at intervals. After the farm and house had been deserted for two or three years they were occupied by a widow named Wise. The only rights she had was that of a squatter, but no one interfered. She was a woman of fifty, in fair health, and now and then a farmer tendered his services to plow and plant for half a day.

One fall, as the widow's half-acre of potatoes was ready to be dug, she had the misfortune to break her arm. She could cook for herself, but she could not handle axe or hoe with the one hand. With the help of a boy she got in her garden stuff, but the potatoes bid fair to remain in the ground until frozen. She was out one day digging a few with her fingers when an auto stopped on the highway and a girl got down and came to the fence.

"I am visiting my sister, Mrs. Clancy, at the big house on the hill. Have you a broken arm?"

"Yes, missy."

"And no husband or hired man?"

"No."

"But what are you going to do?"

"I can do very little with this broken arm. The farmers are all very busy with their own work, and I have no money to hire with. The potatoes must freeze in the ground."

"But I shan't let that happen. You will see me again soon."

"What does she mean by that?" mused the widow. "Queer that a stylish girl from the city should be interested in me."

That was 10 o'clock in the forenoon. At 1 o'clock the auto was there again. So the girl, who had on a calico dress she must have borrowed of her sister's cook. So were five men in a wagon, all armed with hoes.

"Now to make the dirt fly!" laughed the girl; and with a hoe she was first to uncover a hill of potatoes.

She had toured the country until she had found five men willing to beat Jack Frost to the potatoes.

The work had scarcely begun when a young man came along in an auto driven by his chauffeur. He was dignified and complacent. He was viewing the country. The sight of a girl and five men hustling in a potato patch excited his curiosity. The auto stopped and he was wondering over the scene when the girl called out:

"This way, young man, if you wish to make yourself useful!"

"I don't quite understand," he said

IF YOU WISH TO DO A DRIVING BUSINESS USE THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW

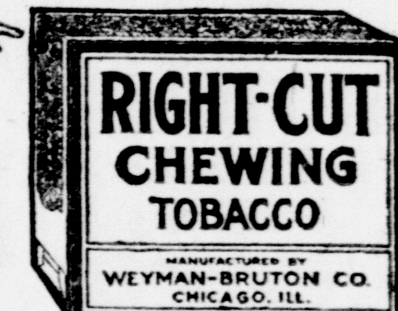

THE GOOD JUDGE AND THE TEAMSTER

COMPARE a chew of "Right-Cut," the Real Tobacco Chew, with your old kind of chew. "Right-Cut" is ready—you don't have to work it into condition.

It is cut right to give you all the pure, rich tobacco flavor of the mellow, sappy leaf, seasoned and sweetened just enough. A very small chew satisfies. It lasts—you take only about half the number of chews.

as he left the machine and came to the fence. "It is a poor widow that lives here."

"Yes."

"Just so."

"Her potatoes will be spoiled if not dug now."

"Dear me!"

"And we've turned out to dig them. You might call it a potato bee."

"And you want my help?"

"But you are all dressed up," she replied after a closer look at him.

"That needn't count a bit. Mr. Clancy lives down the road a bit, I believe. I knew her when she was a Miss Allsford. I thought I might call, you see."

"Then you don't want to be covered with dust and dirt?"

"Oh, I can pay the call some other time. We must to work."

He removed his coat and cuffs, and under instructions he conveyed the potatoes to the house as fast as the girl dug them. While filling his basket he queried:

"Mrs. Clancy has a sister. I believe?"

"Yes."

"Ever see her?"

"A few times."

"They say she is very handsome."

"I believe that some folks do."

At another time, after a sharp survey of the girl out of the corner of his eye, he asked:

"I suppose you live around here?"

"Yes, part of the time."

The girl had dug and the young man had carried for her three baskets of potatoes when she gave a shout that brought the whole crowd around her. She was turning up gold pieces with her hoe, and solving a mystery older than she was. Larkins, after all, had had time to reach home and thrust the money under the soil before being arrested. It was a wonder that it had not been discovered.

The widow received half the treasure, which she considered ample pay for a broken arm. When all had been finished the strange young man suddenly exclaimed: "Dear me, but this unusual excitement has made me forget myself. Let me introduce myself as Mrs. Arthur Barton, of the city. I am an architect."

"I also forgot my manners," smiled the girl as she looked ruefully down at her dusty calico dress and hands that needed soap and towel. "I am Miss Nettie Allsford."

"But not a sister to Mrs. Clancy?"

"I can't very well be her brother."

"But—but—"

"Come along, now, and we will pay a call together."

Later on it was asked of Miss Nettie:

"Why, where in the world did you and Mr. Barton first meet?"

"Oh, it was in a potato patch," was the reply.

—They drove past the widow's last spring only a month before their marriage, and after a look over the fence the young man said:

"It seems like a dream."

"You might come back tomorrow and plant the widow's potatoes for next fall!" was smilingly suggested.

A Legacy of the Distant Past.

"Did you ever notice," asked the experienced restaurateur, "that when one man is giving a dinner to another the waiter upon opening a bottle of wine generally pours a little into the glass of the host and then proceeds to fill the other man's glass to the top? If you asked the waiter why he did that he probably would be unable to tell you, but as a matter of fact it is a survival of feudal days, when life was held somewhat more lightly than today. It is intended to give the host an opportunity of taking the first taste of the wine in order to assure his guest that it is not poisoned."—New York Tribune.

THE APPRECIATION OF GOOD WORKS

Let us not forget that Rev. D. C. Jones and Rev. Father Ambrose Murphy are sincere social workers. They are clean, earnest men—not afraid. Neither will ever have wealth, for while we are striving for gain they distribute their dollars among the poor, even to their own deprivation. Their motives will stand the test with the purposes of anyone of us who are interested in either side of the present unfortunate controversy. Every man who believes in the immortality of his own soul should entertain some respect for men who have given their lives to good works, and should have some understanding of the zeal that impels them.

JUSTICE AS SHE IS ADMINISTERED

To those who "reverence" the courts as such, without discriminating between the good and the bad judge, we commend the following news item for thoughtful reading:

New York, Jan. 1.—William C. Dameron, former president of the Home bank, Brooklyn, convicted of grand larceny in the theft of $2,500 from the bank, got an order for a new trial today on the ground that the special panel from which his jury was selected was drawn at 9 o'clock on the morning of Jan. 18 last instead of 10 o'clock, as the court order had provided.

"His lawyer challenged the entire panel at the trial on this account. Justice Crane overruled him. He took the matter to the Appellate division, second department.

"The justices, with one exception, ruled today that the difference of that hour invalidated the trial."

What mockery of justice is this! With only one dissenter, a court of appeals stays its hand upon a technicality so immaterial to merits of the case as to scale the summit of the ludicrous. Imagine this learned court, robed in dignity, ponderously declaring that because a jury was impeached one hour before the appointed time, one duly convicted of a felony must not be punished, but the state must pay the expense of an additional trial. "Oh, learned judge!"

Happily, in this state, one of the "La Follette vagaries" is a law which forbids our supreme court to reverse cases upon anything so inconsequential as this red-tape objection.

In this state, also, (another "La Follette vagary") a legislative committee is at work framing a method of revising and simplifying court procedure along lines based upon substantial justice rather than complex technicality.

The nation needs nothing more urgently than a sane revision of its system for the administration of justice, for the present methods, nicely calculated to confuse the lay mind and suit public bewilderment to the purse of the attorney, is an efficient instrument for the miscarriage of justice.

OH, FOR A SENSE OF HUMOR AND A KINDLY THOUGHT!

We wish a kinder feeling might have prevailed all around.

Nobody thinks, and so far as we can find from the evidence, nobody said that factory girls, as a class, are bad girls. We all know they are just human girls, like the girls in the schools and in the homes; with the same instincts for good, subject to the same influences of example and environment.

In the schools and in the homes we attempt to surround young girls with elevating influences, fine examples and safeguards against life's besetting temptations.

The question has been raised, "is not the factory girl entitled to the same consideration?"

Sociologists declare that she is; that her life, her happiness and her welfare are as valuable to the state as are those of her more fortunate sisters.

Accepting this dictum, let us turn to the factory and see the conditions that exist there? Are they what they should be? Do all proprietors personally interest themselves in the matter? To what extent and how can they be improved?

Perhaps the best test would be for the manufacturer to inquire whether, should misfortune overtake him, and his own daughter be compelled to work for a living, he would want her to work in his factory under existing conditions.

The manufacturer who cannot answer that question affirmatively has a duty to perform.

There is as wide difference between factories in this particular as there is between different homes. We know of factories in La Crosse that we believe will stand the test; we regret that there are other factories here that we think would not.

What we cannot understand is why men who have recognized their responsibilities and maintain conditions as good as management can effectuate, have seen fit to pool their interests indiscriminately with other factories in the issue here raised.

We do not think there is in La Crosse a manufacturer who would knowingly condone conditions tending to demoralization; but we believe there are among them busy men whose lives have been so obsessed by business that they have given little thought to the social problem, working on oblivious to things that knowingly they would neither defend nor countenance.

Gentlemen, let us be calm. Let us submerge resentment in the deeper self that rises above the injured ego, and turn to the sound values of this discussion. Let us face this situation without passion or prejudice, with the charity and manliness that deserts the best of us in temper.

We suggest that the manufacturers search their factories and see to what extent they can improve the wholesomeness of their atmosphere; that they apply to their bosses and overseers, in addition to tests as to industrial efficiency, the same tests as to character that are applied to men and women who seek stewardship of girls and boys in the schools; that they lay down strict rules governing deportment and language employed in their places of business.

If they want to get the facts, let them not confine their inquiries to department heads. Let them call in all classes and grades of workers in the ranks, give them kindly assurance that what they seek is the truth and that no one shall suffer for telling it; let them get to the very bottom of conditions, and where evils are found root them out.

Why not toss away the foamy froth of passion that tops every sea of trouble, and do these big things which befit the manhood of our bigger men? La Crosse has weighty problems to solve. Yesterday we were a unit for their proper solution. Shall we forget them today in a profitless controversy over an incident that is past?

Please, won't someone whistle a tune?

Who in thunder rocked the boat?

It may be well to remember that there is a kick in every gun.

The Portsmouth (N. H.) police-woman who lost her job for being too young and handsome must wonder how she happened to get it.

An Eating Proposition
A stalwart young German applied for a position on a farm. As he walked into the barn he addressed the farmer: "Hey, mister, will you job me?"
"Will I what?"
"Will you job me? Make me work yet."

"Oh, I see, you want a job," said the farmer. "Well, how much do you want a month?"
"I tell you. If you eat me on der farm, I come for five dollars, but for twenty-five dollars I eat myself at Schmidt's."—National Food Magazine.

Where Love Doesn't Count
They were crossing the channel and the ship was lurching and rolling as only in the channel a ship can roll or lurch.

She was horribly seasick; he was not. And many a honeymoon, no doubt has begun like this.
Presently, in a comparatively tranquil minute, she turned toward him, and:

"Oh, Harry, Harry," she asked, "do you love me?"
"Love you, my darling?" he said. "You know I love you with all my heart and soul. Love you, indeed! I adore you, dearest!"

The ship gave another lurch and she was silent for a minute. Then:

"Oh, dear, Harry," she groaned, "I thought that might help me a little, but it doesn't—not a bit!"

Anticipating Trouble
Governor Dunne was reminiscent. "When I was a boy in school," he said, "we always had a lecture every Friday afternoon. One Friday a geologist lectured about Niagara Falls, and told us that in the course of some 200,000 years they would have worn their way back to Erie and that town would be left high and dry. Suddenly the lecture was interrupted by one of the girls in the class, who began to sob hysterically."

"Why, Edith," cried the teacher, "are you ill? What is the matter?"
"Oh," wailed the girl, "my sister lives in Erie!"

Cause of His Lapse
Little Everett was a member of the Band of Mercy society, and was proud of the membership. He wore his badge, a small star, as if it were a policeman's insignia, and was often heard reproving other boys and girls for cruel treatment of dogs and cats.
One morning a woman of the neighborhood heard a commotion outside Everett's home, and, going to the window, was surprised to find Everett in the act of tormenting the cat.

"Why, Everett," she called, "what are you doing to that poor cat? I thought you belonged to the Band of Mercy society!"

"I did," replied the little boy, "but I lost my star."—Lippincott's.

Sized Him Up
A clergyman was preaching in a strange church one Sunday evening. While at supper in the vicarage afterward a ring came at the bell. The maid entered and said:

"Please, sir, there is a man at the door who says he wants to speak to the preacher."

The clergyman, thinking he was going to interview some one, got up with alacrity and went into the hall. Here he saw a tall, powerful looking man about his own size.

"Well, my good man, what can I do for you?" he asked, thinking of the other spiritually.

"Well, sir, I was thinking, while I was listening to yer preaching, as how yer might have a pair of trousers as would fit me!"—Argonaut.

The Critical Moment
"G-g-good evening," said the young man who had come to speak to the girl's father.

"Good evening," replied the old gentleman. "You look a trifle nervous. How do you feel?"

"Flattered," replied the young man. "I was afraid I looked scared to death."

Couldn't Help Her
At a country picnic a good natured chop spoke rashly to a young lady without the formality of an introduction. There was occasion for it, for he happened to see a great, fat caterpillar crawling on her lace collar and, jumping toward her, he said:

"Madam, permit me to—"

But the young lady waved him off with an imperious gesture and said:

"How dare you speak to me without an introduction? You are certainly no gentleman, sir!"

PELLAGRA HOSPITAL

Dr. Rupert Blue.

Dr. Rupert Blue, surgeon general of the U. S. public health service, has just presented to the secretary of the treasury an exhaustive report on the ravages of the mysterious disease known as pellagra. In his opinion this disease is a grave menace to the national health and at his recommendation the secretary of the treasury will ask congress for an appropriation of $50,000 for the establishment of a special hospital in the South where cases of the disease may be treated and studied.

AUTHORIZE D. & H. STRIKE

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 13.—Authority to call a general strike of all employees of the Delaware & Hudson railway is granted the unions according to indications after one-fourth of the 5,000 referendum votes had been counted. This was the announcement of M. C. Cary, vice president of the railroad conductors' union and one of the leaders in the fight against the company.

PAYROLL IS STOLEN

FORT SCOTT, Ark., Jan. 13.—That $9,305 was stolen from the office of the Wells-Fargo Express company last night, was reported to the authorities today. The money was intended for the payroll of the Western Coal & Mining company at Jenny Lind.

WOMAN REFUSES OPERATION

Tells How She Was Saved
by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Logansport, Ind.—"My baby was over a year old and I bloated till I was a burden to myself.

I suffered from female trouble so I could not stand on my feet and I felt like millions of needles were pricking me all over. At last my doctor told me that all that would save me was an operation, but this I refused.

I told my husband to get me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I would try it before I would submit to any operation. He did so and I improved right along. I am now doing all my work and feeling fine.

"I hope other suffering women will try your Compound. I will recommend it to all I know."—Mrs. DANIEL D. B. DAVIS, 110 Franklin St., Logansport, Ind.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, is it not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering in a like manner?

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Seven Keys To Baldpate

"I'm so glad," she said. "But why—why didn't you give it to me last night? It would have meant so much to me."

"That," replied Mr. Magee, "is what I'm coming to—very reluctantly. Did you note any spirit of caution in the fellow who set forth on your quest, and dropped over the balcony rail? You did not. I waited on the porch and saw Max tap the safe. I saw him and Cargan come out. I waited for them. Just as I was about to jump on them, somebody—the man with the seventh key, I guess—did it for me. There was a scuffle. I joined it. I emerged with the package everybody seems so interested in."

"Yes," said the girl breathlessly. "And then—"

"I started to bring it to you," went on Magee, glancing over his shoulder at Max. "I was all aglow with romance, and battle, and all that sort of thing. I pictured the thrill of handing you the thing you had asked. I ran up-stairs. At the head of the stairs—I saw her."

The light died in her eyes. Reproach entered there.

"Yes," continued Magee, "your knight errant lost his nerve. He ceased to run on schedule. She, too, asked me for that package of money."

"And you gave it to her," said the girl scornfully.

"Oh, no," answered Magee quickly. "Not so bad as that. I simply sat down on the steps and thought. I got cautious. I decided to wait until today. I—I did wait."

He paused. The girl strode on, looking straight ahead. Mr. Magee thought of adding that he had felt it might be dangerous to place a package so voraciously desired in her frail hands. He decided he'd better not, on second thought.

"I know," he said, "what you think. I'm a fine specimen of a man to send on a hunt like that. A weak-kneed mollycoddle who passes into a state of coma at the crucial moment. But—I'm going to give you that package yet."

The girl turned her head. Mr. Magee saw that her eyes were misty with tears.

"You're playing with me," she said brokenly. "I might have known. And I trusted you. You're in the game with the others—and I thought you weren't. I staked my whole chance of success on you—now you're making sport of me. You never intended to give me that money—you don't intend to now."

"On my word," cried Magee, "I do intend to give it to you. The minute we get back to her inn. I love it safe in my room."

"Give it to her," said the girl bitterly. "Why don't you give it to her?"

"Oh, the perversity of women!" "It's you I want to give it to," replied Magee warmly. "I don't know what was the matter with me last night. I was a fool. You don't believe in me. I know—"

Her face was cold and expressionless.

"And I wanted to believe in you—so much," she said.

"Why did you want to?" cried Magee. "Why?"

She plodded on through the snow. "You must believe," he pleaded. "I don't know what all this is about—on my word of honor. But I want to give you that money, and I will—the minute we get back to the inn. Will you believe then? Will you?"

"I hate you," said the girl simply.

She should not have said that. As far back as he could remember, such opposition had stirred Mr. Magee to wild deeds. He opened his mouth and words flowed forth.

What were the words?

"I love you! I love you! Ever since that moment in the station I have loved you! I love you!"

Faintly he heard himself saying it over and over. By the gods, he was proposing! Inanely, in words of one syllable, as the butcher's boy might have told his love to the second kitchen maid.

"I love you," he continued. "Idiot!"

Often Mr. Magee had thought of the moment when he would tell his love to a woman. It was a moment of dim lights, music perhaps in the distance, two souls caught up in the magic of the moonlight night—a pretty graceful speech from him, a sweet gracious surrender from the girl. And this—instead.

"I love you," in heaven's name, was he never going to stop saying it? "I want you to believe."

Bright morning on the mountain, a girl in an angry mood at his side, a seedy chaplain on his trail, an erring cook ahead. Good lord! He recalled that a fellow novelist, whose love scenes were regarded as models by young people suffering the tender passion, had once confessed that he proposed to his wife on a street-car, and was accepted just as the conductor handed him his transfers. Mr. Magee had been scornful. He could never be scornful again. By a tremendous effort he avoided repeating his childish refrain.

The girl deliberately stopped. There was never less of sweet gracious surrender in a suffragette burling a stone through a shop-keeper's window. She eyed Mr. Magee pityingly, and they stood until Mr. Max caught up with them.

"So that's the hermit's shack," said Max, indicating the little wooden hut at which they had arrived. "A funny place for a guy to bury himself. I should think he'd get to longing for the white lights and the table d'hotes with red wine." "A very unromantic speech," replied the girl. "You should be deeply thrilled at the thought of penetrating the secrets of the hermitage. I am. Are you, Mr. Magee?"

She smiled up at Magee, and he was in that state where he thought that in the blue depths of her eyes he saw the sunny slopes of the islands of the blest.

"I—" he caught himself in time. He would not be idiot enough to babble it again. He pulled himself together. "I'm going to make you believe in me," he said, with a touch of his old jauntness.

Mr. Max was knocking with characteristic loudness at the hermit's door.

CHAPTER XI.

A Falsehood Under the Palms. "Make me a willow cabin at your gate," quoted Mr. Magee, looking at the hermit's shack with interest.

"Um-m-m," replied Miss Norton. Thus beautiful sentiments frequently fare, even at the hands of the most beautiful. Mr. Magee abandoned his project of completing the speech.

The door of the hermit's abode opened before Mr. Max's masterful knock, and the bearded little man appeared on the threshold. He was clad in a purple dressing-gown that suggested some woman had picked it. Surely no man could have fallen victim to that riot of color.

FEEL HEADACHY, DIZZY, BILIOUS? CLEAN YOUR LIVER! A DIME A BOX

Sick headaches! Always trace them to lazy liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or a sick stomach. Poisonous, constipated matter, gases and bile generated in the bowels, instead of being carried out of the system, is reabsorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, sickening headache. Castorets will remove the cause by stimulating the liver, making the bile and constipation poison move on and out of the bowels. One taken tonight straightens you out by morning—a 10-cent box will keep your head clear, stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular, and make you feel bright and cheerful for months. Children need Castorets, too.

JAN KUBELIK

While musicians and musical critics agree that Kubelik's technique is flawless, it is not the musicians who have elected him the world's greatest violinist. He won his title from the people—people who yawn over Beethoven and grow sleepy over Bach, people who do not know an arpeggio from an andante, but whose soul responds to the music that comes from the soul, as Kubelik's unquestionably does. It was nearly twenty years ago when the little Bohemian violinist first came to this country as a boy prodigy and the sensation he created will never be forgotten. Since then his art has matured, but the qualities that make him a favorite today were precisely the same as those which brought the general public trooping to hear him when a boy of eleven. The moment Kubelik steps onto the stage his personality impresses itself. He is slight, not looking a day over 25 (although his age is 35) with hair and eyes as black as nature can dye them, with repose of manner and manliness of bearing as far removed as possible from the trickster, a charlatan would do easy things in a way to deceive the audience into thinking the feat one of great difficulty; Kubelik does the most astonishing things as though they were nothing at all. Never once does he lose his poise or do aught that is not sincere. Kubelik has the Bohemian's intuitive sense of rhythm and beauty, but none of the wild gypsy flavor that characterizes the "near musician." He is an artist in the truest sense, one to the very tips of his heavily insured fingers. La Crosse people will have the privilege of hearing Kubelik Thursday night at the normal school.

FISKE O'HARA

There is a special charm in Fiske O'Hara's new play, "In Old Dublin," which he will present at La Crosse theater tonight, at 8:15. It is a charm which will be relished and appreciated by those who love the rollicking stories of Charles Lever, Maxwell and other of the Irish novelists, who wrote of that period, the early part of the last century. It has that daredevil atmosphere in which the pulse of the auditor beats faster and with good wholesome blood. It is the period in which gallantry held sway; when for love's sake a young blade was willing to face his hunter at a dangerous fence or try his luck in the duello. Of such material is the hero of "In Old Dublin," and Mr. O'Hara is exceptionally happy in a

NABS PIRATES IN THRILLING BATTLE

Captain Charles Reiner.

Captain Charles Reiner of the steamer Willamette was the hero of a recent thrilling battle with pirates on the Pacific, near San Francisco. Two men were in hiding on the ship when it left port. They attempted to overcome the captain and take $2,000 from him. He was successful in the fight. Had the men not been overcome they would have leaped from the steamer and made their escape in a gasoline launch which hovered near.

role of this kind. He is said to have made the success of his life in Neil Powers, the young marine architect who is the central figure of the story. With a lot of catchy new songs and some old time favorites sung as he only can sing them, can hardly be any doubt of the popularity of "In Old Dublin."

Crazy.

"We find the prisoner not guilty by reason of insanity."
"But the plea was not that of insanity," remarked the court.
"That's just the point we made," rejoined the foreman. "We decided that any man who didn't have sense enough to know that an insanity plea was the proper caper must be crazy."—Philadelphia Ledger.

ICE HARVEST DUE TO START AT ONCE

Men Busy Laying Out Squares for Cutters and Crews Will Be at Work at End of Week

The cold weather of the last three days has brought a smile to the faces of ice men, who were gloomily figuring that there was never going to be ice thick enough to cut. But the sub-zero weather of Sunday, Monday and today has added inches to the armor over rivers and sloughs, and the men were out today marking the ice into squares for the big cut.

Headquarters of the Arctic Ice and Fuel company, which takes its cut from Black river, said today that while the cold weather had been opportune, the ice still lacks an inch or two of being properly thick for cutting. There is scarcely more than twelve inches, it was said.

It is expected that with a continuation of the present cold weather, the ice will be in good shape for storing. The Arctic company expects to put up something over fifteen thousand tons of ice this season, and will employ a crew of fifty or sixty men during the harvest season.

Other ice men about the city, when seen today, declared that the harvest was due to start within a few days. All are gathering crews for the cut.

WINONANS TO ROLL LOCAL PIN SMASHERS

The Nelson Clothing company five of maple-destroyers, among the fastest teams in the Commercial league on the North side, has scheduled a game next Sunday with the Schellhas team of Winona. The teams are said to be evenly matched and the contest, to be rolled at the Voves alleys on George street, will be attended by a concourse of fans from all parts of the city. Interest in the game is heightened by the fact that Winona has the stain of a defeat to wipe out, the local Eagles having rolled to victory over the Winona Eagles a week ago.

WANT SAMPSON IN STATE RING CARDS

George Melde, known to sport fans of the north and south side as Young Sampson, is in demand as a preliminary scrapper in fight clubs about the state, since the knockout he scored over Frank Lucynski of Sparta at the premier of the La Crosse Athletic association. Madison and Beloit are now attempting to arrange bouts for him in the near future, with men of his own poundage in those cities.

Altered the Case.

"Henry, what is this underworld there is so much talk about?" "The underworld is a general term that is applied to the class which is made up of people who trade on vice and live by criminal practices." "Dear me! Why is such a class permitted to exist?" "Oh, it serves its purpose." "In what way, I should like to know?" "For one thing, if there were no such class I'm afraid I'd have to go out of the law business right away, and I don't know of anything else that I could make a living at." "Well, of course, that being the case, I suppose we ought to look at it sensibly, but I almost wish you had studied to be a doctor."—Chicago Record Herald.

BABY'S FACE ONE SORE WITH ECZEMA

Cried for Hours, Could Not Sleep. Resinol Brought Rest and Cure. Reading, Pa.—"My baby girl had eczema for over six months. It was painful and itching, she could not sleep day or night, she would scratch till blood and water would run down her neck. Then it burned her so she cried for hours at a time. The right side of her face was one sore and scab. I got the samples of Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment on a Saturday morning, and put them on, and put them on again in the afternoon and in the evening before I put her to bed, and she went to sleep and slept till next morning. I thought I was in heaven the first night, and by Monday the eczema was dried up so that all the scabs fell off. Resinol Soap and Ointment cured my baby." (Signed) Mrs. Wm. M. PIONEER DIES AS RESULT OF FALL

Ephraim Stathem, Unable to Recover from Broken Collar Bone Received January 2

A fall downstairs which broke his collarbone, on the second of January, caused the death at 7:45 this morning, of Ephraim Stathem, resident of La Crosse since 1854. Mr. Stathem was 89 years of age.

Mr. Stathem was born in Cheviot, Hamilton county, Ohio, Nov. 26, 1824. He received his education in the schools of his native state, and engaged in business there, before coming to La Crosse in 1854.

The year after his arrival in this city he married Miss Sarah Fisher. Eight years ago Mr. and Mrs. Stathem celebrated their golden wedding, but Mrs. Stathem preceded her husband in death.

Mr. Stathem, when he first came to La Crosse, was an employee of the American Express company, but for the last nineteen years he has been watchman at the Oak Grove cemetery. He is survived by two children, Robert Stathem of St. Paul and Miss Mamie Stathem of this city. The funeral arrangements have not been completed, pending word from the son in St. Paul.

RUSHFORD MINN

Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Anderson and little son and Mrs. Archie Thompson of Choice were the guests a day or so ago of the L. A. Gullickson home on Ferry street.

Clarence Dahl and family, who have been in Colorado since early fall, came back to the home of Mr. Dahl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Dahl of Choice, about a week ago. They have the sympathy of their friends and neighbors in the loss of their little son, who died very suddenly a day or so ago, the parents finding him dead in bed one morning. The child was four months old.

At the Presbyterian parsonage in this city there occurred on Wednesday afternoon, January 7th, the marriage of Mr. Walter E. Colbenson to Miss Sophia Chilson, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Chilson of this city. Rev. Bantly, pastor of the Presbyterian church was the officiating clergyman.

Abe Abrahamson was a recent business visitor at La Crosse.

The "call of the editor's desk" has again proved too alluring to Mr. C. L. Foss, and he has left the restaurant business to return to his "first love," the Lanesboro Leader.

Carl Berg and Ernest Johnson went out to their recently acquired land near Stanley, Wis., Wednesday and will take out an outfit to the land to saw up the timber in that locality. They have taken land about one and a quarter miles from that of E. H. Fenstermacher, who went out there in October last.

The Abe Abrahamson home on Stevens avenue has had as recent guests Mr. and Mrs. Vance of Houston and Mrs. Charles Metcalf of Caledonia.

Harold Albrant, who has been spending the past two weeks with his parents at Minneapolis, has returned to this city and again taken up work in the knitting mill.

The many friends of Mr. D. J. Tew of this city have lately received word that he was one of the victims of an automobile accident recently while in a machine with his daughter and her husband in California. A tire exploding caused the machine to turn "turtle" and threw all three out.

Mr. Tew and Mrs. Sprague escaped without injury, but Mr. Sprague was not so fortunate, suffering injuries which necessitated his going to a hospital for a few days.

The City and Farmers' Telephone Exchange has lost one of its efficient "hello girls" in the person of Miss Jennie Larson, who for three years has served the public well and faithfully. Miss Larson resigned her position last week and her place will be taken by Miss Laura Larson.

Miss Gertrude Wadden, who spent the holidays with her parents at Lanesboro, has again taken up her duties as instructor in the South Rushford school.

George Hanson, who home is in Choctawhatchee, Mont., but who is attending high school in this city, spent the holidays with his uncles at Bratsberg.

Miss Selma Melgard has returned to Milwaukee to resume her duties as nurse at a hospital there.

Mrs. Clara Tollefson has gone to La Crosse to remain a short time.

There is planned to have commenced a class in household science at the high school here, if enough ladies are interested enough to make the plan a success. The class, if started, will meet once each week.

Mr. and Mrs. Kilbourne have departed for a several months' sojourn at Long Beach, Cal.

The Mack Webster home has had as a guest Miss Hortense Keuth of Preston, a sister of Mrs. Webster.

J. G. Robertson has recently purchased a new five passenger Chevrolet car from local salesmen.

Mr. Andrew Holt of Whalen has been a recent guest of the N. O. Holt home in this city.

Mrs. Jacob Johnson has had as her guest Mrs. L. H. Julrud of Houston.

Mrs. Onstine of this city has recently returned from an extended visit with her son, George Onstine of Houston.

business was gone over and plans made for the new year. At the meeting of the Ladies' Missionary society held the same afternoon the officers were all elected to succeed themselves as follows: President, Mrs. David Otis; vice president, Mrs. John Bantly; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Charles Chapple; president of literature department, Miss Verna McLeod. Mesdames Thomas Ferguson and M. Johnson, who were the hostesses for the day, served a delicious luncheon in the cosy church basement from 2:30 to 5:30 p. m. in which a very good crowd participated. At the annual election of the Presbyterian Sunday school last Sunday the following officers were elected: Superintendent, Mr. J. C. Jensen; assistant superintendent, Rev. J. C. Bantly; secretary, Miss Effie Blanchfield; treasurer, Miss Bertha Blanchfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Will McCormick of Vinegar Hill were recent visitors in this city.

Mr. Ray Carter, who has been employed for some time at the Ford garage in this city, was stricken with paralysis of the lower limbs Saturday night and is still in a precarious condition.

No sleighing and poor wheeling is the trouble here just now, the farmers around the city disliking to try to bring wood, hay and the like on the roads as they are now. Wood still keeps to a pretty stiff price, although several sellers say it seems to be a "drug on the market."

Mrs. Culhane of this city met with a very painful accident last Sunday afternoon while on the way to the home of her mother, Mrs. McCormack, in Brooklyn. In stepping off the sidewalk her foot in some way slipped and the large tendon of the limb apparently either broke or was greatly strained, rendering it almost impossible for her to get back to her home. While now resting quite easy, Mrs. Culhane is confined to her bed and it will probably be some time before she will be able to attend to her household duties.

The recently purchased electric piano at Mr. Wm. Blanchfield's barber shop still draws a full quota of music lovers each evening and not only of gentlemen, but of ladies, who with their brothers or husbands drop in to listen to this musical wonder. The instrument is operated by electricity and the music rolls include almost everything from negro melodies to the old time favorites.

The pastor and congregation of the Rushford Presbyterian church last Sunday welcomed into membership Mr. and Mrs. Gielow of South Rushford.

WHEN the food reaches the stomach it is subjected to a peculiar churning movement by the muscular walls of the stomach. (See Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, page 45). In the liver, kidneys and skin, the blood is purified of its waste materials—these organs act as human filters, leaving the blood pure and clear—unless liver, digestive tract and kidneys are clogged.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

is a stomach, liver and kidney tonic—by assisting the stomach to assimilate, the liver to filter, the kidneys to act—the poisons are removed, the red blood corpuscles are increased and one feels light, fresh and active instead of logy, dull and heavy. The "Discovery" stimulates the stomach, increases action of heart and arteries and is a most satisfactory alternative in blood-taint of any character. The refreshing influence of this extract of native medicinal plants has been favorably known for over forty years. Everywhere some neighbor can tell you of the good it has done.

Sold by all medicine dealers in liquid or tablet form; or send 50 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N.Y., and a trial box will be mailed you.

Installing Officer Clara Smith was presented with a bouquet of flowers and Isabella Short, retiring president, also received a bouquet of flowers, the presentation speech being made by Anna Hilbert, president.

Cheap and Easily Made, But Ends a Cough Quickly
How to Make the Very Best Cough Remedy at Home. Fully Guaranteed.

This pint of cough syrup is easily made at home and saves you about $2.00 as compared with ordinary cough remedies. It relieves obstinate coughs—and is even whooping cough—quickly, and is especially good for bronchial asthma, spasmodic croup and hoarseness.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 1/2 pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours. Tastes good.

This takes right hold of a cough and gives almost instant relief. It stimulates the appetite, and is slightly laxative—both excellent features.

Pinex, as perhaps you know, is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guaiac and the other natural healing pine elements.

No other preparation will do the work of Pinex in this mixture, although strained honey can be used instead of the sugar syrup, if desired.

Thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada now use this Pinex and Sugar Syrup remedy. This plan has often been imitated, but the old successful combination has never been equaled. Its low cost and quick results have made it immensely popular.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant.

Tides of the Mind.

Shakespeare tells us that there is a tide in the affairs of men. Certainly there is a tide in the minds of men. He must be very unobservant of himself who does not know that the mind rises and falls, that it swells into fullness and strength and then fades into emptiness and weakness. We know not how, we know not why. Formerly the tides of the sea were also a great mystery. Slowly did observation disclose that they were under the influence of the moon and, still later, of the sun. So with the tides of the mind. We are taught now that they are caused and governed by our faith and by our love.

PUBLIC DEBATE

Mr. Editor:

I have been reading the noble proclamation of our mayor and the recommendation of Wm. Doerflinger, to the board of trade, on the "Father and Son" movement which has been inaugurated in many cities and wish to contribute my mite in spreading this spirit of "comradeship."

For years it has been my privilege to know the name of "Comrade" through meeting those who have come to a consciousness of the joy found in realizing social comradeship, and that spirit of fellowship which by deeds proves the desire to "do unto others as ye would that they do unto you." I am delighted to see this spirit, first developed through fathers and sons, then on, through the business interests of the board of trade, down into the factory and shop.

And now, that our mayor has made the call to our business interests, let's have the good example set by our city fathers, for "charity begins at home."

In this city we have some fathers who would be glad to have an opportunity to join the "Father and Son" movement, but are tied down to the slavery of long hours at labor and cannot get the opportunity to see their sons long enough to be "comrades" to them; we have them in the shops and stores, in the fire and police department.

These are good men, but long working hours do not permit the time at home they should have with their sons.

Take our city fire fighters. They work twenty-four hours each day for twenty-five days of the month, tied down to the engine house at the munificent "salary" of eleven and a fraction cents an hour; we might do more than dream of the "Father and Son" movement if we granted the two fathers system and worked these fathers reasonable hours. The same may be said of the policemen. On New Years Day, just after the mayor's proclamation had been published, a fireman and a policeman, met and a third person passing, greeted them with, "Happy New Year!" They returned the greeting; then the policeman turned to the fireman and remarked, "This is a great 'happy new year' for us." Gentlemen of the city hall, these men have sons, also, and they probably love them as much as you do yours. If you wish the "Father and Son" movement—GET BUSY!

Down in the factories there are also many fathers who would like more of the wealth they create with their labor to give leisure and life to those they love. They are sweaty, calloused, scarred, and black with the grime of the shops, but beneath those ragged work-shirts beat hearts, whose love is proved by their willingness to slave amid the danger and turmoil, that their loved ones may live to see a better world. Then, again, our fathers of the board of trade, is where a wonderful work can be done by the "Father and Son" movement.

All you will get out of this old world is the food and raiment and six feet of soil when your race is run with a few of the disappointing tinseles all the wealth you may grasp will buy, and every hour you see the poverty, the want, you but add to your own earthly hell, when society is one fighting and divided humanity. Every hour of this struggle but prolongs the coming of that harmony and happiness, that He taught you to pray for, "Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, ON EARTH as it is in Heaven."

For years, gentlemen, we comrades of the socialist movement, have been glad to stand the slurs and persecution of this world, and the threat of the tortures all down through eternity, if we could but give our mite, not to dream, but to do those things that shall bring "PEACE ON EARTH, GOOD WILL TOWARDS MEN." Gentlemen, fathers, brothers, we greet you in this hope of the BROTHERHOOD OF MAN. Let us get together and GET BUSY.

R. C. MCALEB, Socialist.

Check the Symptoms of Lung Trouble

One of the many reasons why Lung Trouble is so difficult to fight is because the disease is often of a very flattering nature. The patient may look well, but in reality is fast losing strength by continued night sweats, fever and cough. These symptoms should be checked as quickly as possible. Eckman's Alternative is beneficial in checking fever and night sweats and it has brought about many complete recoveries. Read this case:

305 W. 36th St., New York.
"Gentlemen—I am writing you this testimonial that others may know what your Alternative has done for me. Since I was a very young woman I was a sufferer from Bronchitis. I tried doctor after doctor, getting little or no benefit. Finally I had night sweats, weak spells and lost rapidly in weight and my doctor told me if they were not checked I would have Lung Trouble. Miss Mary Korhamer, who is a friend of mine, recovered after taking your Alternative and insisted that I try it. I am now, after two years, perfectly well, strong and healthy." (Affidavit) MRS. ROSA VOELPEL. (Above abbreviated; more on request.)

Eckman's Alternative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious for severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds and in upbuilding the system. Contains no narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. Sold by Geo. E. Mariner, Chas. E. Beyschlag and leading druggists. Write the Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet telling of recoveries and additional evidence.

GIRLS! CLEAN AND BEAUTIFY HAIR
NO DANDRUFF—25 CENT DANDERINE

Stop washing hair! Try this! Makes it glossy, soft and abundant.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; invigorates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair.
 Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.
 You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

SUPREME COURT
ASKS MORE TIME

Declines to Pass On State Forestry Reserve Project Without Further Argument

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 13.—The supreme court, in declining to pass upon the issues in the case involving the life of the state forestry reserve project, this morning asked for more time in which to consider it and for further arguments on several questions. Justice Marshall wrote the memorandum, which is presented by a unanimous vote of the court. He said:

"Upon due consideration it seems quite plain that the public interests require the full submission of facts which were suggested in the oral argument."

Questions to be argued are then suggested.

The distinguished services of the late General E. S. Bragg of Fond du Lac were memorialized in the supreme court today. Addresses were made by Attorneys Morris McKenna, T. L. Doyle and Herbert Swett of Fond du Lac. The response was made by Chief Justice J. B. Winslow.

A memorial for the late Colonel George W. Bird of Madison was read by Attorney John M. Olin.

PRESIDIO, Texas, Jan. 13.—The departure of Gen. Villa's constitutionalist troops from Ojinaga for the south continued today. Villa himself remains, but will probably leave the captured city tonight or tomorrow morning. He will go to Chihuahua to take personal charge of the work of re-equipping and remounting his soldiers before opening a campaign against Torreon, Monterrey, Saltillo, and Mexico City. By Sunday practically all of the constitutionalists will have left Ojinaga.

Nothing has been learned of the whereabouts of General Orozco, Carrasco and Rojas, who escaped before Ojinaga fell Saturday night.

Major McNamee, the American commander, today is completing his preparations for transferring to Fort Bliss near El Paso, all the federal soldiers and Mexican refugees detained here.

Hold Americans Prisoner
 LAREDO, Texas, Jan. 13.—That federal soldiers from Nuevo Laredo had seized the San Enrique ranch near Hidalgo and are holding Manager Otto Winter and family, Americans, prisoners, was the information received today by Consul Garrett. The ranch is one of the largest in Mexico and was formerly the property of the late President Madero, but is now owned by an American company.

Hunt Generals
 DEL RIO, Texas, Jan. 13.—United States troops, customs officers and secret service men are searching this vicinity today for General Pascual Orozco and Gen. Inez Salazar, who fled from Ojinaga and are believed to be hiding on the American side.

Both are under indictment by the United States court for violation of the neutrality laws. It is not believed they will go into Mexico as long as General Villa seeks them, preferring facing the American court to rebel wrath.

Pass Debt's Interest
 (By a United Press Staff Correspondent.)

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 13.—Alleging that the pacification of the country is the first duty facing the Huerta government, formal announcement was made today that semi-annual interest payment on Mexico's external bonded debt will be passed.

It was said that all available funds will be applied to financing the army, buying arms and ammunition and paying the soldiers.

The decision was arrived at in a cabinet meeting and Foreign Minister Mohna will notify all foreign governments.

WILLARD IS ACQUITTED
 JURY DECIDES FIGHT IN WHICH BULL YOUNG WAS KILLED WAS NOT A PRIZE FIGHT

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 13.—When Jess Willard, the "white hope," knocked out "Bull" Young at Vernon, Cal., last August, it was a boxing contest, not a prize fight, although Young died a few days later. This was the verdict today of a jury which acquitted Willard of a charge of violating the California law against prize fighting.

SWEATER THIEF GETS JAIL TERM
 Alfred Cooney, who stole a sweater belonging to T. Solberg, 1430 Herlin street, was yesterday sentenced to serve twenty days in the La Crosse county jail. Daniel Para, self claimed son of a grand opera star, and who has been caught prowling about the homes of prominent citizens, yesterday was sentenced to the county jail for twenty days by Judge Brindley.

SHOOTING FATAL TO GLEN MALEY
 Glen Mailey, the 17 year old Galesville, Wis., boy who was accidentally shot while hunting with Vernon Dale, his friend, died at the La Crosse Lutheran hospital at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The young man was shot through the back, the 22 calibre bullet penetrating his bowels, according to physicians.

His body has been sent to Galesville for interment.

FOOLS HIS FRIENDS AND TAKES A BRIDE
 Carl P. Nonstad, mail carrier at the La Crosse postoffice, fooled his friends and quietly—it became known today—was married to Miss Ava Cordell, a local girl, on December 27.

me that any signs—and there are such occasionally—of immoral suggestions or misconduct on the part of any of his employees is cause for summary dismissal. The one known bad apple is not allowed to rot the one next to it. I believe that a strong moral sentiment by the management of any concern will be felt as a powerful restraining influence by all employees from top to bottom and on the other hand, if the management of an establishment is lax or indifferent as to morals it will tempt more or less the whole establishment.

Should this commission return to La Crosse I am ready at any time to repeat under oath every statement I made before that commission and add quite a few more concrete instances to my first testimony. I have facts to back up every statement I made.

Young Women Know Him
 I have lived long enough in La Crosse for those who know me to understand exactly my position on these moral questions and what I am trying to do for working girls and their families. One of the best societies in my church is composed of young women who work in factories, stores, homes, laundries and in the schools and no effort on the part of a group of men who are very sore for other reasons, can persuade these young women that I am not their friend and that every word and fact in my testimony, however otherwise construed, were in their interests. It has been my observation here, as elsewhere, that the ordinary working girl is quite the equal and often in point of morals much the superior of many of the so-called society girls.

Work For Employers
 Why I want to ask, these resolutions were confined to my testimony touching factory girls, why not have some indignation about other matters concerning which I testified? Such as street walking and solicitations and liquor drinking during and after dances and the automobile races to the road houses?

Since this club is just now so zealous for the good name of the factory girls why have they not also resolutions condemning the men who are responsible for taking girls into wine rooms and whirling them in automobile to road houses after midnight? Are these girls to be left defenseless? Why not attack the real evil of the community instead of trying to work up a false issue that the public well knows is a tissue of misrepresentation in a frantic effort to divert attention from the real problem before us.

Work For Employers
 Why I want to ask, these resolutions were confined to my testimony touching factory girls, why not have some indignation about other matters concerning which I testified? Such as street walking and solicitations and liquor drinking during and after dances and the automobile races to the road houses?

Since this club is just now so zealous for the good name of the factory girls why have they not also resolutions condemning the men who are responsible for taking girls into wine rooms and whirling them in automobile to road houses after midnight? Are these girls to be left defenseless? Why not attack the real evil of the community instead of trying to work up a false issue that the public well knows is a tissue of misrepresentation in a frantic effort to divert attention from the real problem before us.

I believe that there is an earnest desire on the part of the manufacturers of this city to help in every possible way the moral and physical condition of their employees and to this end improvements are continual. I introduced as new laws and public sentiment point but new perils and needs, and no class of men are better informed as to the willingness and desire of the clergy of this city to co-operate with them in any effort that works for the betterment of the young people of our city.

Wants Employers' Co-operation
 For years I have hoped that in co-operation with the manufacturers, the women's clubs and church organizations there would be employed in this city at least two competent women to give all their time to befriend and protect young women in the factories, stores, hotels and other establishments. This and the shutting up until the day of judgment of all the road houses is the greatest moral need of the city of La Crosse just now. Will not some of our philanthropic men and women take this matter up with the manufacturers and others interested and see if La Crosse can not make the life of young women who have to make their living by the sweat of their brow as safe and encouraging as it can be made under present human conditions?

Urges Friendly Counsel
 What we need is not fault-finding, but to come together for friendly counsel and help and unite all our forces for the strengthening of the things that are good.

As to these resolutions I would say in conclusion that they will not in the least befog the minds of the public as to the real issue and interests that are just now involved.

ALL OF NATIONAL BANKS ELECT

Stockholders in Batavian This Afternoon Selecting Director; to Choose Officers

Wallace R. Montague was this afternoon elected by the stockholders of the National Bank of La Crosse to fill the vacancy on the board of directors caused by the recent death of his father, Giles R. Montague.

Today is "election day" in all national banks and this afternoon the stockholders of the Batavian National are balloting for members of the board of directors there.

At the National bank, with the exception of Mr. Montague, all the directors chosen are former members of the board.

The directorate of the National bank is as follows: F. P. Hixon, Geo. H. Gordon, L. C. Coiman, W. R. Montague, A. W. Pettibone, C. F. Michel, Henry Gund, Joseph B. Funke, Geo. W. Burton.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon the new directors will choose the officers for the coming year. It is practically certain that the old officers will be elected.

The directors of the Batavian National, all of whom it is expected will be re-elected this afternoon, are: A. Hirschheimer, M. Funke, F. A. Copeland, G. Van Steenwyk, B. C. Smith, E. T. Mueller, A. G. Paul, Otto Bosshard and E. M. Wing.

CHURCH PLANS TO HAVE BURNS DAY

"Till love of truth, of poetry, Of right, of life, departs; The memory of Burns shall be Enshrined in human hearts."

Preparations are being made for an interesting time at the celebration of the 155th anniversary of Robert Burns, the famous Scottish bard, which will take place at the First Methodist church on Thursday evening, January 22.

"The Cambrian Male quartet" will come to the city for the occasion, with a choice selection of the songs of the plowman bard.

Other choice numbers will be given at the "Scotch evening" and the address on "Robert Burns" by Rev. T. Stanley Oadams will be illustrated with his stereoscopic dissolving views. Many of these views are from personally photographed views of the places. The ladies of the church will serve a Scotch luncheon at the close of the entertainment.

OPPOSE BONDING THAW

JEROME WIRES HE WILL APPEAR AT HEARING AND TRY TO PREVENT PRISONER GETTING BAIL

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 13.—William T. Jerome today telephoned Bernard Jacobs, now here representing Thaw's "Nemesis" in the fight of New York state to return Harry K. Thaw to Matteawan that he certainly will appear at the federal court bail hearing and offer further evidence to show why Standford White's slayer should not be released on bail.

Jacobs today stated that he believes it will be impossible to hold the bail hearing before the latter part of next week, thus postponing further the possibility of liberty for Thaw.

FINED IN MORNING ARRESTED AT NOON

Last night M. J. Gleason, who hales from Waukon, Iowa, was arrested for drunkenness and this morning paid a fine to Judge Cron. He was released at 10 o'clock. At 1 o'clock he was back in a cell—this time with what the police term a "roaring jag." Gleason has $8 left of the "roll" he brought to La Crosse.

Edward W. Roling Dies After Week's Illness with Typhoid Fever and Pneumonia

Edward W. Roling, 26, a graduate of the La Crosse high school, and a resident here until 1904, died this morning at the home of his parents in Colesburg, Iowa, after an illness of little over a week. Typhoid fever and pneumonia caused his death.

Mr. Roling came home from northern Minnesota, where he was connected with a lumber firm, to spend the holidays with his parents. Shortly after Christmas he was taken ill.

Mr. Roling was the son of Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Roling, who were for nine years prominent residents of this town. He was born in Crandon, N. D., in 1888. He was a graduate of the La Crosse high school and the Charles City college. For the last two years he has been connected with a large lumber company.

Mr. Roling is survived by his parents, four sisters, Mrs. John P. Salzer, Mrs. Paul T. Schulze and Mrs. O. W. Muenster of this city, and Miss Florence Roling of Colesburg; Wellington Roling, Seattle, Wash.; Reuben and Milton Roling of Colesburg.

Mrs. Schulze and Mrs. Muenster left this morning for Colesburg. Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

with threatened renewal of activities of Vesuvius, the Italian volcano which has been quiescent for more than eight years.

Frederick Burlingham, who recently went down into the crater of Vesuvius for the purpose of obtaining a kinemacolor film, in a letter in today's London Times, says that Vesuvius is on the verge of another outbreak.

Geologists long have agreed that there is connection in the earth's interior between the volcanoes of the eastern and western hemispheres and the subterranean activity in Japan is taken as corroboration that Vesuvius is getting ready for an eruption.

Late last summer the main conduit of Vesuvius, which was closed as the result of the activity of 1906, when two hundred persons were killed, suddenly opened up and the entire floor of the crater fell in.

Up to that time Vesuvius was inactive. Today smoke was coming out of the new opening, as it has been doing for several months. Explosions take place every few days, but the activity is increasing daily in force.

TWO LOSE LIVES IN MINE BLAZE

CALUMET, Mich., Jan. 13.—Two men lost their lives today in a fire which is still raging in the mine of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company at Negaunee.

John Bebee, a pumpman, who was on the surface when the fire broke out, went underground to investigate. When he failed to return Captain John S. Barrett headed a rescue party which went in search of Bebee. Barrett was equipped with an oxygen tank but it is believed the oxygen became exhausted and he was overcome by smoke.

His body was later recovered but it was found he had discarded the tank.

OLD WEST SALEM CITIZEN IS DEAD

John L. Engen, an old and respected citizen of West Salem, passed away at 1:30 Sunday morning, Jan. 11. The funeral will be held at the house at 9:30 Tuesday morning. Services will be held also at the Norwegian Lutheran church at Holmen and the body will be laid to rest in the Long Coulee cemetery, Rev. Olsson of West Salem will conduct the services.

NOTABLE ONE-ARMED POOL PLAYER HERE

Frank Burns, one-armed pool player who is said to be a marvel in his dexterity with either cue or finger, will give an exhibition tonight in the S. & S. billiard room. He is the master of fifty wonderful trick shots, according to advance notices, and is in addition a very dangerous pool player, with a record of ninety-five straight balls in continuous pool. The exhibition will start at 7:30 this evening. Mr. Burns will be here for but one day.

Republicans Say Country Is Going to Bow-wows and Democrats Assert Trade Is Booming

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Calamity and prosperity clashed this afternoon in the house.

Lining up in defense of the administration, democrats declared that with the tariff and currency laws, business is now prosperous. Republicans hurled back charges that the nation is in the grip of business stagnation. Representative Reed of New Hampshire declared his finding in the manufacturing centers of his district showed "boom times."

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Three thousand employees of the Illinois Steel company's plant at South Chicago went back to work today after several weeks' idleness, and officials of the plant declared they expect to have the full force of 11,000 men back to work before the end of January.

Representative Humphrey of Washington charged that the administration had failed to grant an investigation of the closing of the Washington Shingle mills and that the stagnation had increased since he made his request.

Humphrey also declared that steel mills are closing and read statistics showing that 530 such concerns had discontinued.

"The tariff struck the coast lumber and shipping business like an earthquake in the night," Humphrey declared. "The democratic party's slogan used to be 'pitiless publicity.' Why are they solicitous for silence now? Is it patriotic to keep quiet until the country's industries are done to death by academic doctors and scholastic pedants?"

NAMES COMPTROLLER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—President Wilson today nominated: John Skelton Williams, now assistant secretary of the treasury, to be comptroller of the currency.

That the president may have a fight on his hands to get Williams confirmed was thought possible, as old line republicans and democrats opposed his past financial connections.

Williams was Secretary McAdoo's choice for the post. Under the new currency law, the comptroller is a member of the federal reserve board and has many important duties.

TAX COMMISSION GIVES TAX FIGURES

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 13.—(Special.)—The state tax commission announced today the results of tabulations of Wisconsin taxes for 1914. Total taxes of all kinds, state and local, for this year, amount to $41,496,960.21, and the state assessment from which this tax was derived was $2,998,187,705. The tax rate is computed at .01387403466.

Comparisons of these figures with those for last year show an increase of taxes amounting to $7,973,547.30. The total assessed valuation last year was $2,841,630,416, the total taxes $33,623,412.91, and the tax rate .01182243701. This increase is slightly more than two mills, equivalent to $2.04 for $1,000 of true valuation.

ARREST RUSSIAN AS COUNTERFEITER

KENOSHA, Wis., Jan. 13.—John Vivior, a Russian, arrested on a charge of passing counterfeit coin, is said to have made a confession to federal officials and the Kenosha police last night, after Chief of Police O'Hare had found at his home a counterfeiting kit. The police say he claimed that he had made only a small number of coins. He came here from Chicago and it is thought he may be one of the leaders of the gang which has been putting counterfeit silver dollars in circulation in north shore towns.

BREAKS A COLD NEEDS NO HELP

"Pape's Cold Compound" ends severe colds or grippe in few hours

You can end grippe and break up a severe cold either in head, chest, body or limbs, by taking a dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" every two hours until three doses are taken.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages in the head, stops nasty discharge or nose running, relieves sick headache, dizziness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed up! Quit blowing and snuffing! Ease your throbbing head—nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only 25 cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice and causes no inconvenience. Be sure you get the genuine.

JOHN J. HARVEY DIES IN MILWAUKEE

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 13.—John J. Harvey, for many years identified with the publishing business in Milwaukee, died at St. Mary's hospital at 9 o'clock Sunday night after a short illness. He was 55 years old.

Mr. Harvey, who for the last ten years has been business manager of the Milwaukee Free Press, was stricken suddenly on Saturday. His condition rapidly became worse and he was removed to St. Mary's hospital, where he sank rapidly. He suffered an ailment of the heart which left his left side paralyzed.

RIOT BECAUSE OF BOX-CAR HOUSE

SIoux FALLS, S. D., Jan. 13.—A series of near riots is reported from Hills, Minn., a few miles east of Sioux Falls, because the railway company has installed a "home" for the agent which consists of two box cars placed end to end.

The residents of the town assert that the railway company promised to provide its agent with a "magnificent" home.

KILLED WHEN CAR TURTLES AT SPEED

MAYVILLE, N. D., Jan. 13.—Charles Kittleson of this place was killed Saturday when an automobile in which he was riding overturned.

Three fractured ribs and other injuries were the fate of Charles Tolan, driving the car.

The men were near the city and were making high speed when the steering gear broke, precipitating the car into the ditch.

CLERK, MATCH AND GASOLINE—BIG FIRE

NEW SALEM, N. D., Jan. 13.—James Hanson filled a customer's order for gasoline after dark in Gehl's store on Saturday. Unable to determine just how much oil he had in the can he lighted a match in order to find out. An explosion that followed caused a furious fire, freely fed from several big tanks in the little oil house. Hanson was seriously burned and gasoline worth $200 was consumed.

Teach Your Child How to Be Healthy

Regular Bowel Movement From Infancy Insures Good Health in Later Years.

BERTHA LEE WOODARD

We cannot all start life with the advantages of money, but every child born is entitled to the heritage of good health. Through unfortunate ignorance or carelessness in the feeding of a baby its tiny stomach may become deranged. The disorder spreads to the bowels and before the mother realizes it the two chief organs on which the infant's comfort and health depend are causing it great suffering. If the condition is allowed to continue grave ailments often result.

There is, however, no occasion for alarm, and the sensible thing to do—but it should be done instantly—is to give the baby a small dose of a mild laxative-tonic. In the opinion of a great many people, among them such well-known persons as the parents of Bertha Lee Woodard, 3 years old, of Moultrie, Ga., the proper remedy is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Mrs. I. N. Woodard says that little Bertha was troubled with constipation for over a year, and that after trying several different kinds of remedies she found her relief in Syrup Pepsin. It is a mild, pleasant-tasting laxative, which every person likes, does not gripe nor cramp, and contains that most excellent of all digestants, pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is especially intended for infants, children, women, old people and all others to whom harsh cathartics, salt waters, pills, etc., are distressing. In fact, in the common disorders of life, such as constipation, liver trouble, indigestion, biliousness, headaches, and the various other disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels nothing is more suitable than this mild laxative-tonic, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Three generations of people are using it today, and thousands of families keep it constantly in the house, for every member of the family can use it. It can be obtained of any druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a bottle, the latter being the size bought by families who already know its value. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it postpaid by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 419 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. A postal card with your name and address on it will do.

Even an old soak has been known to generate dry wit.

SELLING PAPA

W. ASHLEY, M. D.

"O," concluded the shaggy-browed Grimstone, "a moment's reflection, young man, will show you how impossible it would be for me to bestow my daughter on one whose future was problematical, to say the least."

"But your own firm needs an advertising manager, Mr. Grimstone, and that would reduce the problematicalness of my future to a minimum."

"That's true, but we could hardly take in a new and untried man."

"Somebody must start new men." An ironical flicker touched Grimstone's gray mustache. "Our competitors do that—we select whom we want."

"Then my future relations with Cecil—Miss Grimstone will depend on my business success?"

"Entirely. I have no objection to you as a man, and I assume Cecil will desire to marry someone. If she fancies you and you have the money to keep her in the position she now occupies, then no one will be happier than I."

"But if she believes I am going to succeed—trusts me?"

"Then she will probably wait for you till you do." The old man's mustache flickered again.

Maltravers bowed himself ceremoniously out. He keenly regretted missing the position with Grimstone & Co.; not only on account of Cecil, but because they were the biggest real estate men in Rockdale and Maltravers had always wanted to work in realty.

In real estate, successfully worked, there were fortunes, he knew. Besides wealth it meant power, the making and unmaking of towns. And beyond that, it meant Cecil.

However, anyone who even assumes to be anything in the advertising world must of necessity be buoyancy itself.

That afternoon he rode with Cecil in a motor down the main pike leading out of Rockdale as blithely as if he had been appointed a dozen advertising managers.

On the left the girl pointed out Fairmount, which her father was then exploiting, a pretty upland bit of woods, already laid out in lots and covered with huge sign boards. "For sale by Grimstone & Co." On the right Snake creek ran some 200 yards below the road, bordered by cypress and sweet gums.

"How long has Grimstone & Co. had Fairmount on sale, little girl?" queried Maltravers, looking over the handsome sites.

"Nearly a year now."

"Who owns the land below here, toward the creek?"

"O, they're just farms, not very good, either, as the creek overflows occasionally."

Maltravers stopped the motor and sat looking up the rising ground and then down toward the creek. "If I could sell this creek land right under the nose of Fairmount," he mused aloud, "wouldn't that rather convince the firm of Grimstone & Co.?"

The girl laughed dubiously. "Why, dear, you couldn't possibly sell those places for residences—it overflows."

"Then perhaps I can sell it to a yacht club," suggested Maltravers, gayly, "or as a bathing resort—anything. You know if I had an office downtown, the right sort of an office downtown, a stenographer, some files, plate glass, typewriter, griddle-iron windows and other things right up to now, I could sell even that stuff."

Cecil laughed. "What has the office to do with selling real estate?"

"It's a matter of business psychology, dear. Plate glass and mahogany furnishings have hypnotized many a man into buying things he didn't want at prices he couldn't afford to pay. On some, of course, it doesn't act so strongly as on others, but it affects all."

"Couldn't you rent that sort of an office on credit?" suggested the girl.

"Yes; but I couldn't get the stenographer. You must pay her promptly at the end of the month or it's all off."

"How would an imitation stenographer do?"

"What do you mean?"

"I mean a girl who knew nothing about stenography, but who would sit in your office and pretend to be working at shorthand and—things?"

"As good as the real thing, I suppose; there wouldn't be much for her to do anyway."

"All right, you go ahead and get the office ready. I know some one who wouldn't mind sitting down there a while every day."

"Now, look here, Cecil, you are not thinking about coming down there."

"Why not, pray?"

"Your father wouldn't let you."

"He has never refused me a single thing I ever asked him. If I want to work out I may. I shan't tell him where."

isted in going to distant watering places for fishing, canoeing, when by buying or renting a site at Sans Souci they could arise in the dewy morning, wander down to Silver creek and draw forth the trout that had been recently stocked in the creek by the government fisheries.

"Go look at Sans Souci yourself," ended the display, "just opposite the old Fairmount place."

The public naturally looked and saw hundreds of negroes industriously making an intricate winding channel for Snake—or Silver—creek, punctured here and there by a fishing pond.

"But it will overflow," objected the pashery who saw the great labor going on.

"Impossible," returned the foreman who seemed very well educated to handle such a job, "where the old Snake creek had one mile of channel, Silver creek will have 18 and a lot of ponds. No overflow could flood such our smartest people are going to build out there."

"Then you'd better make haste, dad, for those lots are going fast," smiled Cecil.

"What do you get for the lots?"

"Anywhere from $3,000 to $10,000."

The father looked up sharply. "You don't mean to say so?"

"O, yes, there has been an awful lot of work done on that water course and then the fishery for raising trout has cost a big amount. It is really going to be a little paradise."

The girl was growing enthusiastic; she had become accustomed to talking to prospective customers. "You know, of course, that if you buy a lot you must contract to put up a house on it to be worth not less than $10,000."

"What's that?"

"Why, certainly, you would want it that you yourself, dad, Sans Souci must be exclusive." Her face was flushing in her enthusiasm, for she herself had disposed of many a lot in just that fashion.

Her father looked at her admiringly. "Why, what a saleswoman you are. You discount my ability by half, and I've worked at it all my life. Sure enough, I'm not joking, what will you take to work for me? I'll give you more than you get at the Sans Souci Company."

"No; I don't think you would be willing to, dad."

"How much do they give you, pray?"

"Half of what they make."

"They? Who?"

The girl blushed furiously. "Why, Henry Maltravers, of course."

Mr. Grimstone dropped back in his chair. "Why, of course, of course. I might have guessed that. I vow I'll hire you both." He leaned forward to watch her face.

Cecil put up two little hands, but her red blushes crept through. She shook her head. "No, you won't hire us; you won't hire us. We might consider a combination—but, dad, you are going to buy a place, aren't you?"

"The Truth Comes Out."

"Please, mister, help a pore cripple," whined the husky hobo.

"Sure," rejoined the kindly old gentleman, as he handed out a quarter. "How are you crippled, my poor fellow?"

"Financially, mister," replied the hobo, as he pocketed the quarter and made a hurried getaway.

Inspiring.

"I am a great believer in atmospheres being conducive of inspiration," remarked the literary person.

"What atmosphere inspires you to do the most work?"

"An atmosphere well filled with the aroma of beefsteak and potatoes," confessed the garret bard with a deep sigh.

First Morning Visitor.

"Jennie," called the old gentleman from the top of the stairs, "give that young man this dollar note."

"What for, papa?" asked his daughter in surprise.

"Why, I want him to pay my milkman his bill. I know he'll meet him as he goes out."

New Variety.

"You have deceived me," growled the man who had bought a bungalow in the suburbs.

"How so, sir?" asked the oily tongued real estate agent.

"Why, when you were negotiating you said there were no common gossips in this neighborhood."

"And I spoke the truth, sir. They are all uncommon. You couldn't find their equal in seven states."

HE feminine nerves and hearts of the little town of Wadleigh were all in a flutter at the announcement that old Dr. Goodale was to have a young assistant. A male importation to the over-populated little town was joyfully heralded.

The new doctor, Walter Ashley, came and saw, but alas! he did not care to conquer. Courtously and persistently he declined all social invitations on the ground that he intended to spend his spare time in pursuit of his professional studies.

The young women of Wadleigh were not rebuffed, but planned a scheme to engage the attention of the handsome young physician. He found himself deluged with calls to houses where there were unmarried daughters.

Goodale," he said excitedly. "Sister's face and neck and ears are all swollen up, and you can't see her eyes."

Dr. Goodale accompanied the lad home and announced on his return that Miss Carr had got poisoned in the woods by handling some ivy leaves.

"I have put on that mixture we were talking about last night, and put on a mask," he informed Ashley.

Two days later he remarked that his young patient had improved so rapidly that he intended to remove the mask that afternoon. But at the appointed hour for the visit he was called to the deathbed of an old friend.

"You will have to go up to the Carrs' and take off the mask."

He was somewhat surprised at the alacrity with which Ashley departed on this visit. On his arrival at the house he was met by Mrs. Carr, a querulous semi-invalid.

"You'll find my daughter in there," she said, indicating a closed door at the end of the hall. "The sight of her face so affects my poor nerves that if you'll excuse me I'll not go in with you."

"It isn't necessary," he said curtly. "If you will send me in a basin of lukewarm, soft water and some old linen I can manage alone."

He opened the door and entered. A tall, graceful figure stood at the window. She turned, and he sympathized with Mrs. Carr's nerves.

A more grotesque face he never had seen. The dark brown ointment Goodale had melted and run through the white gauze mask and bandages. The old doctor had not shown himself an artist in his cutting of the aperture for eyes, nose and mouth.

"Dr. Goodale was obliged to send me in his stead," he announced coldly. "You are Dr. Ashley?" she asked in a soft musical voice that thrilled the young doctor in spite of his resentment.

"I am going to take off your disguise. You are probably not sorry," he remarked as he opened his case and took out his scissors and a small bottle.

She made no response. "Sit here, please," he said.

He drew another chair forward and sat facing her. Deftly he cut the mask and bandages and pulled them off.

"Now I can breathe," she said with a sigh of relief.

Dr. Goodale accompanied the lad home and announced on his return that Miss Carr had got poisoned in the woods by handling some ivy leaves.

"I have put on that mixture we were talking about last night, and put on a mask," he informed Ashley.

A maid brought in a basin of water and some cloths which he moistened and then poured on the liquid from the bottle. Gently and firmly he washed her face and neck. Once he paused and gave a quick searching glance about the room.

"Is there anything you wish, doctor?"

"No," he said shortly. He was merely thinking how different were these settings from the others he had visited.

He noted with a smile the dark sensible wash dress the patient wore, evidently knowing the staining qualities of the ointment.

It was a long task; but at length he had removed every trace of the mixture. He leaned back and critically surveyed her face. The eyes were beautiful in shape and color though slightly sad in expression; the brow, intellectual; the nose, Grecian; the lips sensitive.

"I wonder how my face looks?" she said, speaking as if to herself.

He couldn't resist a little thrust. "Did you ever," he asked, "look at yourself in a new silver spoon?"

She made no response, but walked to the mirror.

"It is much better," she announced. "It will heal quickly now," he said, closing his case.

"I haven't had my face washed so thoroughly since I was a child," she laughed.

He looked her squarely in the eyes. "If you were a child now, I should wash your mouth out with soap," he said.

She made no comment on this speech and he continued slowly. "For the unkind things you said of me."

He repeated her remarks, and she looked a little embarrassed, but she made no denial nor apology.

On his return to the office he found Dr. Goodale in conversation with a merry-faced girl.

"Dr. Ashley, I want to introduce you to my best friend, Miss Carr—Miss Phyllis Carr."

"What?" gasped Ashley. "I thought I had been attending Miss Phyllis Carr."

"O, that was my sister, Helen. Poor Helen; she has suffered so!"

"And I made her suffer more!" he groaned.

"Oh, did you hurt Helen?"

"Didn't it come off easily?" asked the old doctor anxiously.

"O, yes, it rubbed off, but I rubbed it in. If you," meeting Phyllis' mystified eyes, "will let me drive you home, I will explain."

"You see," he began when they were driving home, "I must explain first that you were mistaken. I am neither conceited nor snobbish—I—"

"Oh, you heard my foolish remarks; they were unkind, but were they true?"

"You should have ascertained that before you made them."

"Yes, I should have done so," she admitted. "And you can't help the girls making such fools of themselves. If you will accept an invitation from father to dinner I will take back what I said about snobbishness."

He held out his hand impulsively. "Shall we be friends?"

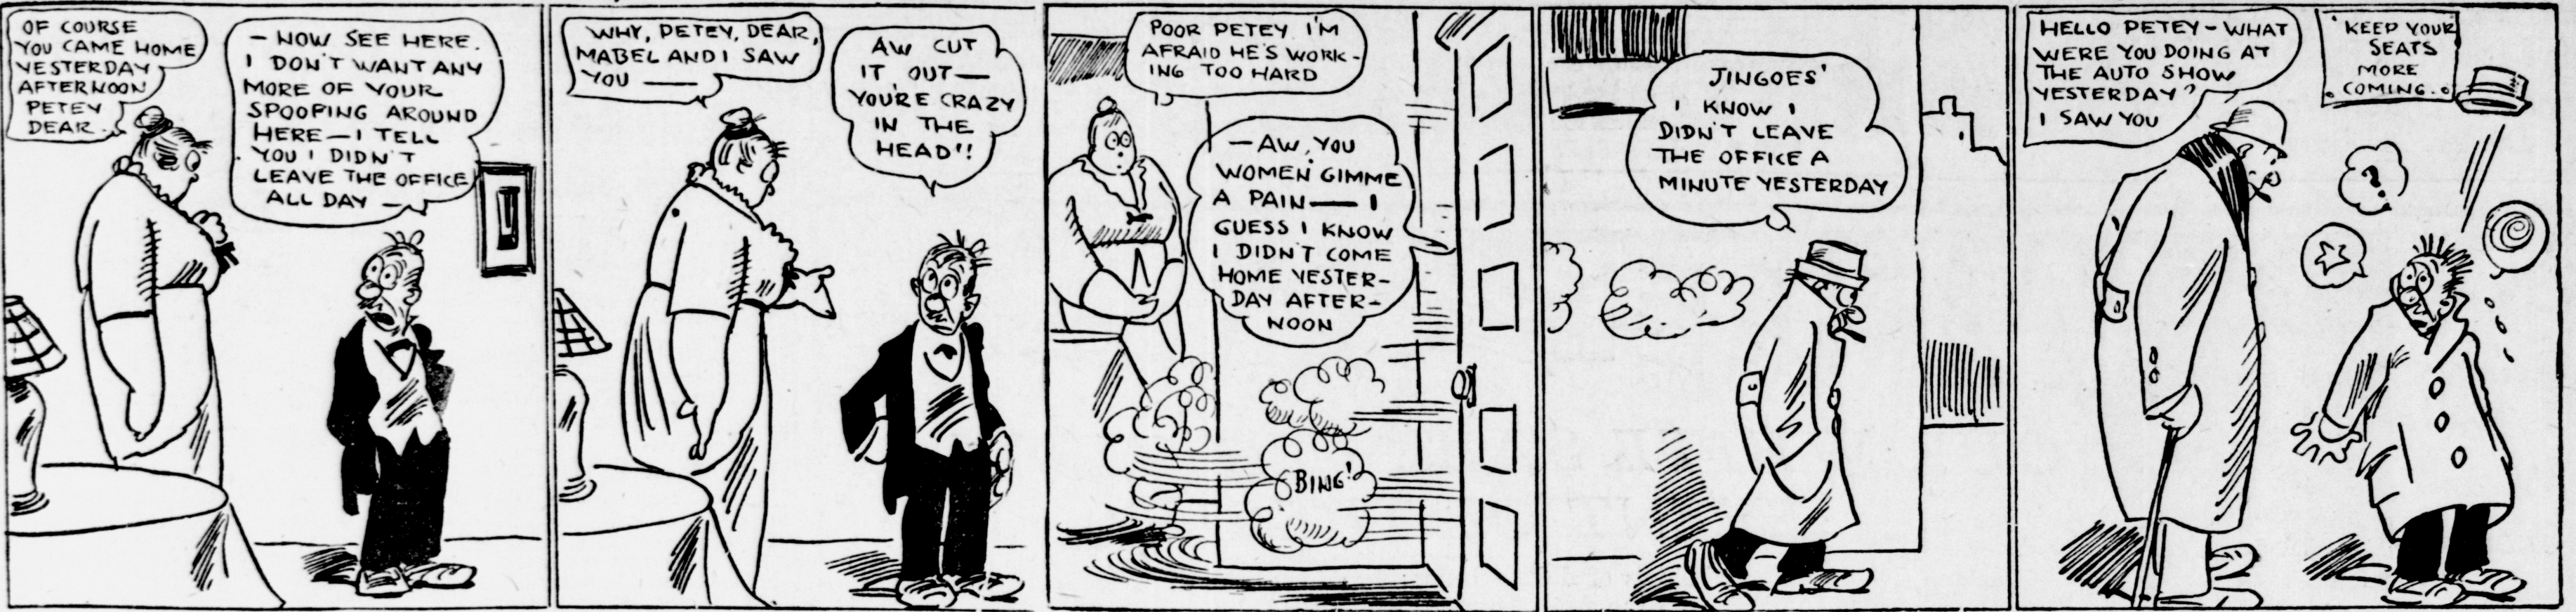

"Certainly."

"Your sister—"

Foreign Markets

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—The stock market opened dull.

Noon.—At noon the market was quiet.

11 a. m.—During the first hour the market's tone was a little uncertain but on the whole stocks were absorbed fairly well. Engagement of $2,000,000 gold for shipment to Paris came in the nature of an unpleasant surprise but of course the metal can be spared.

2 p. m. the market was firm.

The stock market closed firm.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Smaller northwestern receipts and bullish news from Argentina about offset lower Liverpool cables in their influence on the local wheat market. May futures were a fraction lower and July steady on last night's close.

Corn started steady, supported somewhat at the start by a higher cable. The clear weather map and prospects of more moderate temperatures in the next few days helped the bears and futures declined 1/2 c in the forenoon.

Trade in oats was quiet. Futures eased off 1/4 c on the break in corn.

Provisions were firm. Stock Yards houses were good buyers and shorts were busy covering from the start.

Moderate buying in the afternoon caused a general advance in the grain pits. Wheat and corn futures gained 1/4 c and oats moved up a fraction for May and 1/4 c for July.

Provisions continued to make gradual gains until the close.

MT. HOREB TO HAVE HUGE SKIING MEET

Many of Best Sliders in Wisconsin to Compete on Jan. 20 When New Trestle Opens

MOUNT HOREB, Wis., Jan. 13.—Mount Horeb will break into the ski world on Jan. 20, when the first ski tournament ever held in this city will occur under auspices of the Mount Horeb Ski club, of which Andrew Dahle is president. As the club is a member of the National Ski Association of America sliders of every club in the association are eligible to compete. This will bring many of the best sliders in the United States here.

Mount Horeb's new slide is the sixth steel trestle in the world. It is entirely of steel, has a ground length of 128 feet, slide of 160 feet from start to bump and will shoot the slider off the "bump" at a velocity of nearly ninety miles an hour. The steel alone weighs 10,000 pounds. It was bought from F. S. Wetherell, Chicago, its erection cost the club nearly $1,500.

Towering sixty-eight feet above the top of the hill adjoining the $15,000 artificial lake here, the trestle should make possible jumps from 125 to 140 feet. The landing hill is 200 feet long and adjoins the lake.

Other officers of the new club, the youngest in the National Ski association of America, are: Myron Kelly, vice president; H. C. Gier, secretary; Isaac Fosshag, treasurer; Sydney Sylvester, captain; Dr. J. E. Brager, second captain.

Current Talk

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—The following dates for the International Amateur Ice Speed Skating championships for the United States and Canada were announced today: Detroit Arena, Detroit, Mich., Jan. 19 and 20; Elysium, Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 21 and 22; Saranac club, Saranac Lake, N. Y., Jan. 27, 28 and 29.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—"Just bruised up a bit," was the physician's statement today concerning Gus "Americus" Schoenlein, of Baltimore who lost the heavyweight finish wrestling bout last night to Gustav Fristensky, the Bohemian champion. Fristensky won the first fall in 22:03 and the second in 3:02.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Delegates to the Western Golf association will assemble here Jan. 17 for the annual meeting.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—The betting was even today for the ten round bout between Battling Levinsky and Porky Flynn, Boston heavyweight at the National Sporting club tonight. Flynn will weigh 190, Levinsky 168. The winner will be matched with Gunboat Smith, providing the latter is willing.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—President Farrell of the New York Americans today expected to receive the signed contract of Jimmy Walsh, crack cutfielder, purchased from the Athletics for $5,000. Harry Williams, young first baseman purchased from Galveston of the Texas State league, signed today.

200 TEAMS MAY BOWL AT MADISON

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 13.—A conservative estimate of entries for the annual state bowling tournament at Madison places the number at 150, but it is hoped that the number will go nearer 200 and eclipse the mark of 181 set at Beaver Dam last year. Entries close on Wednesday and the bowlers must hustle if they wish to get a place on the schedule. President Mitchell has some open dates left on favored days, and the first teams applying for these will secure them. Milwaukee, of course, will have the largest representation, about sixty teams. Juneau will be represented by two star teams, due mainly to the efforts of Ed Schmidt in that direction.

TO ENJOIN TINKER TO SPOIL SWITCH

Brooklyn Will Attempt to Keep New Manager from Playing with Chicago Federals

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 13.—That Joe Tinker will be enjoined after the first game he plays with the Chicago Federals was confirmed today by President Ebbets of the Brooklyn club, following his return from Porto Rico. The injunction will be asked to prevent Tinker from playing a second time with the Federals, he explained.

Ebbets does not plan to take any action until the Federals open their season. Tinker will not be considered a deserter until the National league season opens in April and he fails to report, the Brooklyn owner declared.

GIBBONS KNOCKS OUT M'ALLISTER

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—The punch again triumphed over science and light hitting in the scheduled ten round bout between Mike Gibbons of St. Paul and Bob McAllister of California, last night. McAllister jabbed Gibbons and kept out of the St. Paul boy's reach with fair success for five rounds but when Mike began to get him in the sixth the end was soon in sight and the knock-out came in the seventh. A solid right and left and a right upper cut to the jaw as McAllister was falling, and the fight was over. It took several minutes to revive McAllister.

FEDERALS INVADE ISLAND DIAMONDS

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—The Federal league is turning to Cuba in its hunt for players, according to Pepe Conte, a Cuban, who has sent several of his countrymen to the big leagues here. Conte, who is now in this city, said James A. Gilmore of the Federals has asked him to serve as scout and agent in Cuba. Conte has given no decision in the matter, but says he is inclined to help the Cuban players get the best possible openings for their talents.

FEDS GET EASTERLY

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 13.—Ted Easterly, White Sox catcher last year, today said he had signed a three year contract to play with the Kansas City Federal league club. Arthur Krueger, outfielder for the Los Angeles club, also signed with the same team.

CINCH TWO MEN

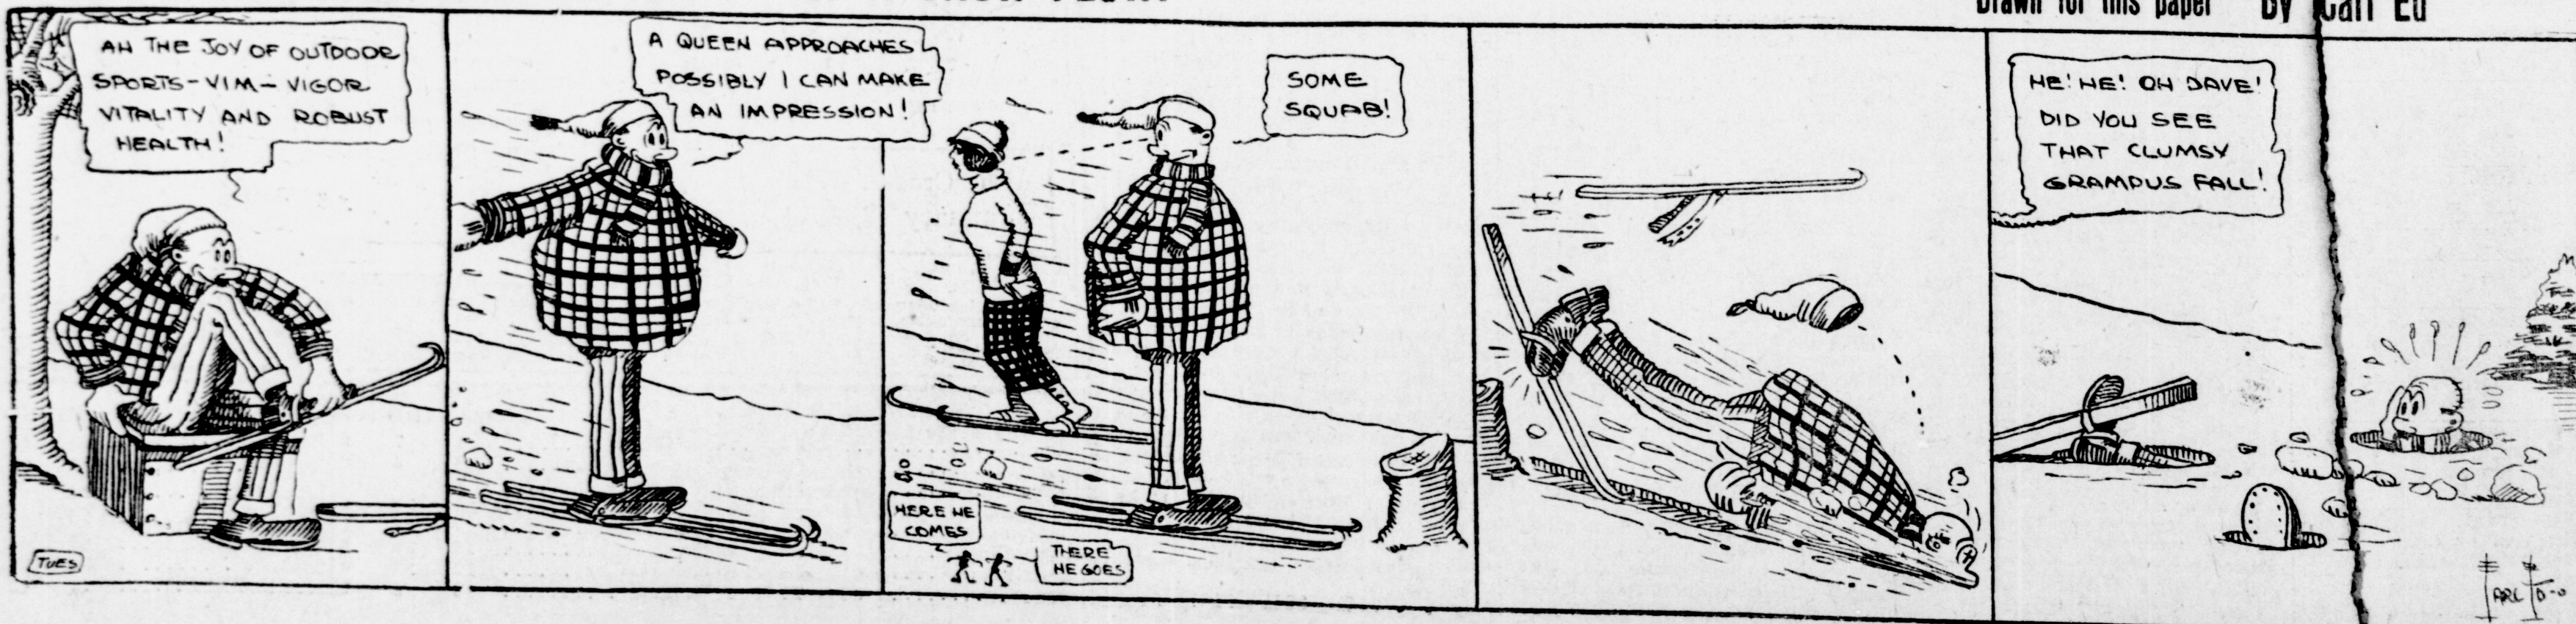

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—With contracts signed by Vic Saler, Cub first sacker, and Bert Humphries, Cub pitcher, safely stowed away in the club's archives, President Charles F. Murphy was feeling somewhat easier today about inroads being made in to the ranks of the major leaguers by the Federals.
